

PRESIDENT CALLS 1952 HYDROGEN BLAST FIRST STEP IN U.S. PROGRAM

Confirms Reports of Thermonuclear

Explosion in Pacific—
Wilson Thinks Reds
Have H-Weapons.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower says the huge 1952 atomic blast in the Pacific was "the first full-scale thermonuclear explosion in history." The first step in the hydrogen weapon program of the United States.

His statement to Congress yesterday was the first official claim that the United States got the jump on Russia with a full-scale hydrogen explosion. Moscow, announcing a hydrogen explosion last summer, said then the United States no longer had a monopoly in the field.

Unofficial letters from the Eniwetok test site in the fall of 1952 described the big blast as wiping out an island.

Another test of a thermonuclear device is scheduled at Eniwetok this summer.

The text of the President's statement:

"Operation Ivy—the first full-scale thermonuclear explosion in history—took place at the island of Eniwetok in the autumn of 1952. The test was conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense as a necessary first step in the hydrogen weapon program of the United States. At that time it represented the farthest advance of research and development in nuclear weapons.

"Stage of Improvement." This explosion, dwarfing the atomic explosions of World War II, was but a stage in the steady improvement of our nuclear weapons. These improvements will be continued—in the hope that our weapons will deter war, and in the determination that we shall be able to retaliate immediately, with crushing force, if war should come.

"In nuclear explosions, enormous amounts of energy are instantly released—and as quickly lost to the service of man. As our atomic weapons steadily improve, the United States will continue to strive patiently and prayerfully—to speed the day when this gigantic energy shall become exclusively the servant of peace—a tireless benefactor bringing greater health, comfort and happiness to all men, women and children on earth."

Wilson Doubts Reds Bluff. Secretary of Defense Wilson, meanwhile, told a press conference he does not regard Russian talk of its atomic strength as bluff, and he added: "I personally wish we could quit rattling the atomic bomb."

He said if Russia should agree to atomic disarmament, the United States would have to take a "second new look" at its military program, which places emphasis on air power and new weapons, including atomic ones.

Asked if in another Korean-type war this country would limit itself to the use of conventional weapons, Wilson replied: "I think it would be hard to determine the reason why you shouldn't use a gun that shoots a hundred times more powerful than another gun."

Wilson noted the Russians "made the simple statement last summer" that they know how to make H-bombs, and he said they've been "a little careful, as a matter of fact, to play down" talk of atom strength.

Lawmakers See Movie. The President's statement was sent to Congress in connection with the showing to the lawmakers of movie concerning Operation Ivy. Two showings for Senators were yesterday. Members of the House are to see the film today.

Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep., New York), chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, said the Administration is "now working toward the possible release of this film for the general public a few weeks from now."

The Pentagon now has a go-ahead to build a global chain of storage bases for atom bombs and initial approval to add three American cities to a network of guided missile air defenses.

The House Armed Services Committee gave final authorization yesterday for the secret A-bomb bases abroad to cost $11,000,000. The Senate Committee previously had approved the project.

Cities to Get Protection. The House group also added Norfolk, Va., Los Angeles and Boston to New York and Chicago as cities to get batteries of Nike for protection against air attacks. Another battery is planned for Fort Meade, Md., to protect Washington and Baltimore.

The House committee approved the A-bomb storage bases without discussion and without indicating in what countries the facilities would be placed.

Alexander P. De Seversky, pioneer aircraft designer, told a Senate Interior subcommittee yesterday the American long-range bombing force is "puny and entirely too small" to win a future world war.

Yet he said, such a war will be decided entirely by air power and the decisive blows will be struck in the opening days.

De Seversky, long an advocate of the thesis of victory through overwhelming air power, said the present United States strategic air force is "well led and well manned."

But it is so small "they would be overwhelmed and defeated in their first attempt," he insisted.

1,000,000 WELCOME QUEEN AND DUKE TO AUSTRALIA

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 3 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, stepped ashore here today, the first reigning British monarch ever to land in Australia.

An estimated 1,000,000 persons lined the streets for a view of the Queen's car on its nine-and-one-half-mile triumphant progress.

The royal liner Gothic, which brought the Queen from New Zealand, passed through a line of almost 400 flag-dragged yachts and small craft as it entered the harbor.

The summer sun beamed from cloudless skies as the royal couple went ashore at almost the same place where the Queen's parents, then the Duke and Duchess of York, landed in 1927 to open the first Parliament held in Australia's present capital of Canberra.

Top Australian officials greeted the Queen and her husband when they landed. Communist Aldermen Ron Maxwell and Tom Wright were among those presented to the Queen.

NO. 2 MAU MAU LEADER SENTENCED TO DEATH IN KENYA

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 3 (AP)—A British court today sentenced to death the No. 2 fighting leader of the anti-white Mau Mau terrorists, self-styled "Gen. China."

He was found guilty of conspiring with armed persons and of unlawfully possessing two rounds of ammunition.

The 32-year-old China, whose real name is Waruhiu Itote, was the second top leader of the Mau Mau high command captured by the British in their war against tribesmen trying to drive them out of this rich East African colony.

Moscow-trained Jomo (Burns) Kenyatta, considered by the British the mastermind of the Mau Mau, was sentenced to seven years in jail last April for leading the secret force. The Kenya Supreme Court upheld his sentence three weeks ago.

Gen. China was considered second in command to the Mau Mau field commander Dedan Kimathi. He was captured Jan. 14 in a skirmish 60 miles north of Nairobi.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The House Public Works Committee today approved a Senate-passed bill authorizing the United States to join with Canada in building the St. Lawrence seaway.

The measure, slightly amended from the form in which it passed the Senate on Jan. 20, now goes to the House Rules Committee. The latter group will decide if and when the bill is to be sent to the House for debate.

Approval by the 29-member Public Works Committee was by a 23-to-6 vote.

The bill, as passed by the Senate, would authorize a St. Lawrence Development Corp. to issue $105,000,000 in bonds to the United States Treasury to finance this country's share of the construction. The House committee amended the financing provision by providing that the corporation issue revenue bonds in the same amount to the Treasury. They would be amortized by imposition of tolls on ships using the 27-foot deep Atlantic to the Great Lakes waterway.

PROF. FURRY SAYS HE QUIT REDS IN 1947

Has Given to Communist Causes Since, Harvard
Crimson Story Asserts.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 3 (UP)—Prof. Wendell Furry, in a copyrighted interview appearing in the Harvard Crimson today, said he resigned from the Communist party in 1947 but had "contributed" on occasion since then to Communist defense causes.

The undergraduate daily newspaper, describing this as the first full statement ever made public by the Harvard teacher, said Furry talked volubly, "apparently relieved to be free at last from the confining gag of the Fifth Amendment."

Furry said he joined the Communist party in 1938 at the suggestion of a friend whom he had identified before Senator Joseph McCarthy's investigating committee as mathematics Prof. William T. Martin of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Furry said he resigned in 1947 and had told members of the Harvard Corporation. He said he declined to answer questions before Senator McCarthy's committee on his activities before 1951 because they might misinterpret his contributions to defense groups as membership in the party.

Furry said he never took an active part as an organizer in the Harvard Communist group. Furry said he decided to quit in 1947 as result of the Communist postwar policy which "violently attacked the United States and began a type of propaganda drastically different from that of the previous seven or eight years."

14 ARE BITTEN BY RABID DOG

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—At least 14 persons were bitten Tuesday night by a dog which died a short time later and was found today to have rabies.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, said the victims range in age from 6 to 41 years and "face almost certain death" unless they present themselves for anti-rabies shots. Some received first aid treatment for bites, but did not take the shots.

SOVIET DIPLOMAT REPORTED BARING SPY RING TO U.S.

Russian Who Sought
Taken to Okinawa
for Questioning.

TOKYO, Feb. 3 (AP)—A trustworthy American military source said today a Russian diplomat-spy reported missing last week is revealing secrets of a Red spy ring in Japan to United States intelligence agents at Okinawa.

The source, who cannot be identified, said inside secrets from the "highly efficient agent" are helping crack the spy ring.

The diplomat, Yuri Alexandrovich Rastvorov, apparently fled in terror from the Russian mission in Tokyo, the source said, after helping "set up a spy network that has already penetrated some of the highest levels of the Japanese government."

"Rastvorov left out of fear for his life," the source said. "The claim of the Russian mission that he was kidnapped by the Americans is ridiculous."

Appeal to Japanese Police.

Rastvorov disappeared Jan. 24. The Soviet mission first reported to Japanese police that he was missing and later accused the United States of kidnapping him.

However, the American source said Rastvorov fled after being ordered back to Moscow because he apparently was found "softened" toward Americans.

American intelligence agents at Okinawa presumably were questioning him about Soviet espionage activities at American bases in Japan.

Although Japan is a sovereign nation, American and Japanese intelligence agents have worked closely together. It was not known whether a Japanese government agency was involved in the current inquiry.

The Japanese Foreign Office asked the United States Embassy yesterday if it knew of the Russian's whereabouts. The Embassy has not replied or even acknowledged receipt of the inquiry.

Others Reported Wavering.

The source said a Russian intelligence agent accompanying a Russian ice-skating team here in January brought orders for Rastvorov to return home. He said Rastvorov then decided to ask the Americans for asylum.

The source also said two other Russian agents in Tokyo—both friends of Rastvorov—wanted to give themselves over to the Americans, but are being sent home guarded by five other Russians. He said these are the seven men the Russian mission said would return shortly to the Soviet Union.

The American source said Rastvorov is believed to be a lieutenant colonel in the MVD (secret police). Such a rank would make him a key figure in a spy ring here.

There has been no official American comment on the case

Senate Group Indorses Bill To Regulate Coffee Trading

Support of Measure to Head Off More Price Rises Is Unanimous—Senate Approval Likely.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Government regulation of trading and speculation in coffee was recommended by the Senate today by its Agriculture Committee.

A major aim is to head off any more such skyrocket rises as the one that has driven retail prices above a dollar a pound.

Chairman Alben (Rep.), said the committee approved by a unanimous vote a bill which would direct the Commodity Exchange Authority to monitor futures trading in coffee.

The legislation now goes to the Senate with approval indicated.

The bill would add coffee to a list of products who futures trading is monitored by the Department of Agriculture's Commodity Exchange Authority. Trading in corn, wheat, cotton, oats and many other commodities already is controlled.

The legislation had been pending in the committee for some time, but recent spectacular increases in retail coffee prices pushed the bill to the top of the heap.

FTC Making Inquiry.

The Federal Trade Commission, acting under President Eisenhower's orders, has sent a team of investigators and experts to the New York trading center to try to find out whether possible violation of federal anti-monopoly laws may have had something to do with sending the retail price of coffee topping the $1-a-pound mark.

here or in Washington, other than denials that Rastvorov's whereabouts is known.

(President Eisenhower said at his press conference today he has no information on the matter, but that he assumed any important information on the case would be communicated to him.)

U.S. Watched Him for Year.

The source said Rastvorov has been under close American surveillance more than a year. He was popular at the swank Tokyo Tennis Club, frequented by influential American and Japanese figures.

"He was not being recalled because of any bungle," the informant said. "He was a highly efficient agent."

Winning Rastvorov away from the Soviets could be one of the greatest American Army intelligence exploits since the end of World War II.

The similar switch of Igor Gouzenko, Soviet embassy code clerk at Ottawa, tipped Canadian and American authorities on a Red atom spy ring.

DISPUTE SNARLS WIRE-TAP BILL IN HOUSE GROUP

Disagreement on Whether Attorney General or Courts Should Have Authority.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—The Administration's drive to use wire-tap evidence in national security cases bogged down today in a dispute with a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The stumbling block is whether the Attorney General or the federal courts should have final authority to permit wire-tapping in tracking down spies and saboteurs.

It was reported on good authority that Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. may offer a "compromise" in which the President would be the final authority on wire-taps.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Kenneth B. Keating (Rep., New York), approved a bill last year which would legalize wire-tap evidence if it was obtained on a court order. Brownell has opposed the court proviso on the ground it might take too long to act in an important case.

Keating said he conferred with Brownell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Monday and has decided to "recall" the bill for further hearings.

He said Brownell had asked for a chance to be heard on the court-vs.-Attorney General argument and will let him know later this week when he can appear before the subcommittee.

Keating estimated that it will be at least two weeks before the subcommittee would be ready to vote on the bill again. House leaders had hoped the full committee would act quickly so the bill could be brought to the floor early this month.

Keating said the court safeguard is necessary to prevent "indiscriminate" wire-tapping and to safeguard civil liberties.

SOVIET UNION SIGNS NEW TRADE PACT WITH SWEDEN

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union, pushing its program of more trade with the west, today announced the signing of a new trade pact with Sweden. It envisages a big step-up in exchange of products between the two countries in 1954.

Under the pact, Sweden will supply the Soviet Union with staple yarn, paper, fishing trawlers, equipment for the Soviet food and timber industries, electrical equipment, drilling machinery, high quality rolled steel, butter and other foods.

The Soviet Union will supply Sweden with oil, oil products, manganese and chrome ore, asbestos, furs, automobiles and other goods.

SUPREME COURT IS TOLD CITY'S SOLVENCY RESTS ON EARNINGS TAX

Liberman Asserts Levy
Is Necessary to 'Survive and Fight Blight'—Opponent Calls It Unconstitutional.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A defense of the constitutionality of the St. Louis earnings tax was made here today by City Counselor Samuel H. Liberman before the United States Supreme Court.

In oral argument on a suit attacking the validity of the tax, Liberman told the court the levy is the city's only salvation and means the difference between bankruptcy and solvency. Without the $8,000,000 annual revenue from the tax, the city cannot survive and at the same time fight the blight and decay existing there, he said.

The justices heard an attack on the validity of the tax by Stanley M. Rosenblum, St. Louis attorney, who charged that the tax is discriminatory and violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution in that it applies to the gross wages of individuals but only to the net income of corporations.

Plaintiff's Contentions. "Discrimination is inherent in the classifications of taxpayers under the earnings tax law," Rosenblum told the court. "These classifications provide deductions for corporations and the self-employed but none for the wage earner. They (the city) admit discrimination in the classifications but argue that this is not violative of the Constitution."

His contention was that wage earners should be allowed deductions for business, which, under questioning from Associate Justice Stanley Reed, Rosenblum said could include union dues, clothing and licenses.

Liberman replied that the city predicates its case on the belief that business expenses incurred by wage earners are "insubstantial and trivial." Gross receipts from wages, he said, normally approximate the net gain derived from the services rendered but gross receipts from a business do not remotely approximate the net gain.

He cited a Kentucky Court of Appeals decision to uphold his contention that, generally speaking, gross wages of employees and the net profits of a business are as near to reaching "take-home pay" as could reasonably be devised.

"I agree with the Kentucky Court of Appeals," Liberman said, "that wage earners have no business expenses but if they did exist they would be insignificant."

Attacks City's Position. Rosenblum, appearing as counsel in a suit brought in the name of two Shapleigh Hardware Co. truck drivers, said the city was basing much of its case on the contention that the earnings tax would be too expensive to collect if deductions granted wage earners made it necessary to check individual returns for auditing, make refunds and otherwise upset the administrative simplicity in the present system.

"Administrative convenience," he continued, "cannot be used to justify discrimination in imposing taxes."

He said, too, that it is unreasonable to assume that the term wage earner applies only to the man who brings in $36.25 a week and therefore would have a tax return too small to audit. "Stan Musial (Cardinal outfielder) is a wage earner," Rosenblum continued, "and he gets $80,000 in wages a year. Being self-employed doesn't always mean a big income nor does a corporation always mean something big." Rosenblum said he knows of corporations no bigger than "Joe's fish market."

Amplifying his disclaimer that the city is predicating its case on administrative difficulties that would be encountered if wage earners were granted deduction privileges, Liberman said, however, that effective collection of the tax cannot be maintained without its being withheld from employees' wages by employers.

If the employers, as collection agents for the city, had to take into account individual deductions it would mean a great expense to them which the city would have to pay, he said, and "four times as much paper work."

SOLDIER REPORTED MISSING EARLIER NOW LISTED AS DEAD

Sgt. 1-C Olden Lewis, husband of Mrs. Mildred M. Lewis, of St. Charles, previously reported as missing in action in Korea, today was listed by the Army as dead.

Sgt. Lewis, 30 years old, a career soldier, was captured by the Communists Feb. 13, 1951. Four months later, his wife received a letter from a soldier who identified himself as an escapee from a Communist prison camp, saying Sgt. Lewis had died in the camp.

Last August, his name was included in a list of American service men reported by the Reds as having died in North Korean prison camps. The Army makes a determination of death where supporting evidence is available, usually from eyewitnesses, that a man has died even though his body has not been recovered and identified.

QUITS EAST SIDE HOUSING GROUP OVER FIRING POLICY

Fern Rauch, technical adviser to the Illinois Department of Labor, announced today he has resigned from the recently appointed personnel committee of the St. Clair County Housing Authority because of "fantastic assumption of authority" by the three-man committee in hiring and firing employees of the housing authority.

The committee was appointed Dec. 18 with power to hire and fire, following criticism of policies of the County Housing Authority by the Chicago field office of the Public Housing Administration. Other members of the personnel committee, named by former sheriff Max Hill, chairman of the County Housing Authority, are Clinton Hursey, an East St. Louis contractor, and the latter's son-in-law, Paul Stoddard.

Although empowered to hire and fire, Rauch said he objected to the "arbitrary" dismissal of three women clerks by the committee. He said it is his theory the personnel committee should make recommendations only, and the County Housing Authority should make final personnel decisions. His resignation from the committee will be acted on by the housing authority, of which he is a member, at a meeting Feb. 19.

FERGUSON VOTERS APPROVE NEW HOME-RULE CHARTER

Ferguson voters yesterday approved a home rule charter to establish a council-manager form of government, 1950 to 1956.

Under the charter, the number of wards will be reduced from five to three and the present 10-member board of aldermen, mayor, marshal and collector will be replaced by a seven-member council. Two council members will be elected in alternate years from each ward, and the seventh will be elected at large to act as mayor. The council members, to be elected April 6, will choose a city manager.

The city manager, who will be a full-time paid employee, will act as administrative officer for the city. Except for the office of city clerk and city judge, appointed by the council, other city officials will be selected by the city manager or by department heads he selects.

KILLER OF 2 WOMEN ON LIST OF MOST WANTED FUGITIVES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—A 35-year-old gunman said to have broken up a party in Cleveland a year ago by killing his wife and another woman and shooting two bystanders was put on the FBI's list of "10 most wanted fugitives" today.

He is Apea Hamp Chapman, a Negro, who was being hunted for an $11,000 payroll robbery in Philadelphia at the time of the Cleveland affray. The Philadelphia robbery occurred Nov. 23, 1949.

Chapman's criminal record dates back to 1929 when he served time in Pennsylvania for robbery. The FBI described him as "a cop-hater," reputed to be habitually armed with a knife and automatic pistol.

500-Bed Institution Called 'Model Type'— Cost $11,000,000—Staff Will Include 20 Full-Time Doctors and Surgeons, 110 Nurses.

The new $11,000,000 John J. Cochran Veterans Hospital at 915 North Grand boulevard will be officially turned over to the Veterans Administration tomorrow at 10 a.m. when Dr. John W. Claiborne Jr. will receive the keys to the 500-bed institution from the contractor, Del Webb & Co.

After additional finishing touches, the hospital on March 23 will receive its first patients who will be transferred from Jefferson Barracks. Formal dedication ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. April 11. Participants will include Harvey Higley, administrator of the Veterans Administration, and Adm. Joel T. Boone (retired), VA chief medical director.

With the opening of the hospital, Jefferson Barracks will cease to be a medical and surgical type hospital and will treat only neuro-psychiatric cases.

John J. Cochran Hospital, with the most modern equipment available, will handle medical, surgical and mental patients. It is medium-sized as veterans' hospitals go but is officially described as a "model type" because of its 500-bed capacity, new equipment and size and organization of medical and administrative staffs.

Its medical personnel will include 65 consulting and attending physicians, 20 full-time doctors and surgeons, 40 to 45 resident physicians and 110 nurses. There will be a total of 700 employees.

Beds for Tuberculosis Patients. Officials expect the hospital to have about 8000 admissions and discharges a year. There will be 279 surgical beds, 120 medical beds, 78 for psychiatric patients and 39 for patients with tuberculosis.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER WILD CHASE FACES 14 CHARGES

After a wild chase by police, Milton Huber of Belleville was in jail in East St. Louis today charged with 14 traffic offenses.

East St. Louis Police Sgt. Walter Kloczak and Patrolman Stanley J. Sieron Jr. said they fired two warning shots after Huber tried to swerve his truck into the pursuing police car when the officers attempted to halt him for reckless driving.

Huber sped east in Broadway and turned into Twenty-fourth street, came to a halt at a dead end and tried to back over them, the policemen said. The officers fired two shots through the cab.

"Hey," the officers quoted him as saying, "how about giving me a break?"

He was booked for passing six stop signs, speeding, reckless driving, no headlights, no driver's license, disorderly conduct, driving the wrong way on a one-way street, disregarding a police siren and parking in a bus zone.

INVESTIGATIONS CRIPPLE 'VOICE', BOARD REPORTS

Efforts Last Year 'Large-ly Offset, if Not Destroyed,' Commission Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—The United States Advisory Commission on Information said today congressional investigators have so harassed the United States Information Agency that it can hardly get its job done.

The commission, headed by Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said in a semi-annual report to Congress that the global propaganda efforts of the Voice of America and allied agencies were "largely offset, if not destroyed" by home-front criticism last year.

The commission noted that the information agency was investigated both by Senator McCarthy's permanent investigating subcommittee and by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee. McCarthy's inquiry produced a "book burning" controversy over alleged pro-Communist volumes in United States libraries overseas.

"The wide and unfavorable publicity that resulted from one of the congressional investigations gave the agency such a bad name that professionally competent persons were reluctant to accept employment in it," the commission said. It did not say which investigation was responsible.

The commission said employees of an agency constantly under attack or threat of attack become dull and inefficient. It said this is especially true in the case of a propaganda agency, because the employees begin to fear how their written messages, aimed for overseas audiences, will sound to investigators.

"This situation is all the more vicious and destructive when each employee fears his fellow workers," the report said.

The commission also reported that "some of the investigations" during the past year produced "unfavorable impressions abroad" on the very persons United States propaganda was aimed at.

The report was signed by Canham, Philip D. Reed, board chairman of General Electric Co.; Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, and Justin Miller, board chairman of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

NEED FOR SEWER DISTRICT OUTLINED BY FREEHOLDER

John C. Casey Says Future Health and Welfare of Metropolitan Area Depend on Adoption of Plan.

The future health and welfare of the metropolitan area depend upon adoption of the proposed sewer district plan in next Tuesday's special election, John C. Casey, member of the Board of Freeholders that drew up the plan, said at a citizens' "beef session" at City Hall last night.

Appearing at a public session sponsored by the Aldermanic public welfare committee, Casey replied to several trustees of existing St. Louis county sewer districts who stated objections to the plan.

"It is up to the voters to decide whether they want to keep on with the hodge-podge, piecemeal efforts to deal with the sewage and health of our people, or whether they want to cope adequately with the problem on the common-sense basis provided in the plan," Casey, an attorney, said.

Costs to Be the Same.

He argued that costs of maintenance and operation of sewers by a metropolitan authority would be about the same as now, and possibly lower in some places. Expense of new facilities, he said, will be borne by residents who would benefit by them.

Opponents of the proposed sewer plan attacked its provisions dealing with financing and administration.

Stuart MacCreedy, a trustee of the Maria Creek sewer district, located in Normandy township, declared that the six-man board of trustees for the proposed metropolitan district "are the kingpins of the whole business."

"If they want to tax you 10 cents, they'll tax you 10 cents," he said, referring to a provision which states that the rate of taxation for maintenance and operation purposes is not to exceed 10 cents on $100 of assessed property valuation. He added that he thought the plan had many good features.

Frank X. Gillen, a trustee of the Pine Lawn sewer district, said that Pine Lawn will have paid for its sewer system in four years and "would have nothing to gain" from the metropolitan district.

Wade H. Shadburne, an Arbor Terrace real estate dealer, read a statement contending "it is completely undemocratic to vest the Mayor of St. Louis and the supervisor of St. Louis county with the power to determine the identities of trustees." Three trustees would be named by each official, under the plan, subject to approval of a majority of circuit judges.

Equal Representation.

Casey, whose views in favor of the plan were supported by Sewer Commissioner Ernest Paffrath, explained that one reason why the city and county are equally represented on the board of trustees is that although the county has fewer residents, it has a larger area and more potential for population growth.

Replying to questions from Alderman Fred Haak, he pointed out that, at present, residents of north St. Louis are paying, through general funds, for sewer improvements in south St. Louis. Under the sewer district plan, Casey said, only those persons who would use improvements would pay for them.

CHARGE OF VENUE MOTIONS FOR 3 LABOR LEADERS FAIL

Motions for a change of venue for three of 15 AFL labor leaders charged with violating the federal anti-racketeering statutes were overruled today by United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulien.

The motions were among several filed for Carl (Dutch) Bianchi, William Poster and L. A. Thompson, in which the defendants alleged they are unable to obtain a fair trial here because of prejudice of the citizens of this district.

Thompson is business agent of Local 574, Building Material and Construction Workers; Bianchi is a representative of Local 513, Hoisting Engineers, and Poster is business agent of Common Laborers' Local 110.

UNION OFFICER CHARGED WITH KILLING ATTEMPT

Laborer Accuses Wood River Hodcarriers' Agent Earl Fines of Shooting at Him.

Earl Fines, assistant business agent of AFL Hodcarriers and Common Laborers' Local 338, of Wood River, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder today in a warrant issued on complaint of Charles Heath, Hartford (Ill.) laborer.

Heath, reported to be a member of the union, told authorities Fines crowded his automobile to the curb in Hartford this morning and fired three shots, the bullets striking Heath's machine.

Fines then followed him to his home and fired two more shots from a pistol, Heath said. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Fines accused him of "telling too damn many lies," but offered no explanation for the remark.

Heath said there was "internal trouble" in the union. The warrant against Fines was issued by Magistrate Delmar Adams at Edwardsville. Hartford is west of Edwardsville.

JENNINGS SCHOOL DISTRICT VOTERS APPROVE BOND ISSUE

Voters in Jennings School District yesterday approved a $900,000 bond issue, 1101 to 232, to finance construction of additions to three schools.

The money will be used to add seven classrooms to the Jennings elementary school; 10 classrooms to the junior high school, and to build a gymnasium-auditorium, home economics room and industrial shop room at the senior high school.

District Superintendent Otis A. See said the additions would relieve overcrowding which has been so severe pupils in the Jennings district are being sent to Woodland Elementary School.

The bond issue will increase the school tax from the present rate of $2.80 to $2.95 per $100 assessed valuation.

3 Coinage Bills Vetted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed three bills authorizing the coinage of commemorative 50-cent pieces. The measures would have authorized special coins commemorating the sesquicentennial of the Louisiana purchase, the founding of Northampton, Mass., and the tercentennial of the Foundation of New York City.

decision of the Supreme Court in this case to mean that the minority felt the President had the power under the United States Charter to seize the steel industry, although it would not be legal under the Constitution. Mayden said the argument that the Constitution became "subordinate" to the U.N. Charter "is without foundation in fact." He said he had discussed the interpretation made by the Bricker supporters with the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, who wrote the minority opinion. Mayden said Vinson had assured him he "never had any such idea in mind."

PROPOSAL HEADS FOR SHOWDOWN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Deprived of Democratic support, Republican leaders plunged head-on today toward showdown Senate votes on the Bricker constitutional amendment on treaty powers.

All but gone was any hope of compromise over the proposal, strongly opposed by President Eisenhower, to limit the scope of treaties and provide for Congressional regulation of other international agreements. A four-man backfield of Senators Knowland of California, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ferguson of Michigan and Millikin of Colorado, picked up the White House ball with a series of amendments to revise the proposal by Senator Bricker (Rep.), Ohio.

The four, who hold the top G.O.P. leadership jobs in the Senate, faced the stiffest kind of opposition from a former teammate in weeks of fruitless compromise efforts. Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, Knowland, the G.O.P. floor leader, said voting may start in a lengthy session today.

George's Substitute. George appeared to have rallied a majority of the Senate's 48 Democrats behind his action in breaking off bipartisan negotiations for a compromise. He offered in the Senate yesterday as a substitute for Bricker's proposal an amendment of his own to which the White House has raised objections.

This left Knowland and his aids dependent on the Senate's 47 Republicans — and only a segment of them if Bricker does not go along — to support proposed constitutional changes to which Eisenhower would agree. The lineup was such that George seemed more likely to have his way than Knowland. Also, if the existing continued, there was a distinct possibility that no proposed amendment could muster the two-thirds majority required.

George and Bricker conferred today but George said later he did not believe he and the Ohioan could agree on terms of a substitute.

"Senator Bricker wants to go farther on some matters than I do," George said. "He seems more inclined to go along with the Republican leadership's proposals, some of which are going to be opposed vigorously on the Democratic side."

Bricker's original proposal seemed virtually dead. Using it as a basis for revision, the four G.O.P. leaders moved to amend Section Six of the Constitution to provide that "no treaty made after the establishment of this Constitution shall be the supreme law of the land unless made in pursuance of this Constitution."

This provision, which would make past and future treaties subject to court review, had White House clearance.

Another Change. Administration approval was also behind the plan to alter another section of the Bricker proposal to say that "a provision of a treaty or other international agreement which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect." This was the identical language used by George in a section of his substitute.

The Georgia Senator, backed by his own party policy committee, turned thumbs down on any further negotiations toward a bipartisan agreement.

"There is no hope for any compromise now," he said. "We just have to fight this matter out on the floor. The negotiations are over."

One influential Democrat, who didn't want to be quoted by name, said his party members had stipulated that any compromise they supported must be backed by Eisenhower in a letter.

From Democrats who have opposed any amendment to the Constitution on the issue came indications they will back George's proposal over those of the Republican leadership.

One of these Democrats, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, said he probably will vote for the George substitute. He indicated that, if it is adopted, he probably will vote against final passage.

Humphrey's views apparently were shared by 15 or more Senators who say there is no need for any amendment. Their votes will count heavily, because two-thirds of those participating must approve any constitutional amendment. The House must then pass it by a like majority, and before it becomes a part of the Constitution, 36 of the 48 states must approve.

country and was very interested in getting coffee back to a price he thought reasonable. 7. He said he had received no report on the disappearance of a Russian diplomat from Tokyo, who is reported now being questioned by American intelligence officials.

8. He confirmed reports that American air technicians are in Indochina and in many other countries. He said they are not in fighting units and could not say whether those in Indochina were serving the planes we had sent there.

9. After a year of presidential press conferences, he likes them, all in all, but does not like them when they come at a particular busy time.

He remembered that he had been in more or less intimate contact with the press since 1941, and he felt there had been a very fine relationship in war and peace.

With a laugh, he said he had no particular objection to the so-called "needling" questions because he could recognize most of them.

He said he had some very good friends among the press and he particularly regretted that he could not meet them as freely as he used to, because in his present job it is not understood that in meeting a newspaper man he is not just meeting a friend.

PARKWAY PLANS INCLUDE FIVE ACCESS ROADS

the council, said the method of obtaining popular approval would be up to the elected representatives of Clayton and University City. He expressed confidence that when and if definite plans are formulated, much of the opposition will disappear.

Methods for Approval. The municipalities may obtain assent of their citizens by holding public hearings, by elections, or by any other procedure they select, it was said.

James A. Singer, councilman, representing the Fourth District, declared it would be up to city governments to tell the council whether they want the parkway, and where they want it.

Meeting another objection, the council also has promised that, if built, the parkway will be restricted to passenger automobiles. Built entirely with county funds, the parkway would be under control of local authorities, unlike a highway built with federal and state aid.

Faced with organized opposition only from the Clayton-University City group, bond campaign workers planned to redouble their efforts to get the vote out at the special election next Tuesday.

Mrs. Peter Wulffing, president of the Clayton League of Women Voters and chairman of the bond issue election day committee, said automobiles would be available to take voters to the polls. Persons needing transportation were asked to call committee headquarters, Parkview 6771.

'Bond Issue News.'

Charles Claggett, chairman of the bond issue publicity committee, announced that 151,896 copies of an eight-page tabloid newspaper, titled "Bond Issue News," and describing the six propositions of the bond proposal in detail, had been mailed last night to every post office address in the county.

The publication carries a two-page map showing the highway program under the bond issue and reprints a Post-Dispatch news story of Jan. 10, giving detailed information on the 109.7 miles of proposed highways.

Mrs. Maurice E. Mendle, chairman of the bond issue organizations committee, said members of her group had scheduled and attended more than 300 organizational and public meetings in the last three months. The campaign film, "The Big Decision," was shown at many of the meetings.

The six propositions will be voted on separately, with a two-thirds vote required for approval.

In addition to the highway proposition, $3,458,500 of the total would go for health and welfare, $3,000,000 for governmental buildings, $850,000 for voting machines, $1,000,000 for land for sanitary landfill refuse disposal and $4,500,000 for park development.

Approval of the highway proposal would make available about $45,000,000 in federal and state road funds. Under health and welfare, $1,000,000 in federal money under the Hill-Burton Act would be available for hospital construction.

even been touched yet, so there was no way of knowing if the Kremlin had a veto ready or not for the long-delayed Austrian treaty.

Western diplomats commented that Molotov had forged a weapon here he might not have counted on. The Russian's pressure tactics have produced a high degree of solidarity among the Allied powers. His repeated efforts to demonstrate friendship for the French and drive a wedge have been fruitless. Dulles and other American diplomats apparently were greatly pleased with the leading role Bidault has played as part of a determined Western team.

EDC Plan May Benefit.

Molotov's repeated attack on the Western alliance, his blasts at the European Defense Community, and his charges that the West has aggressive designs in its plans for future Germany have all compelled the western three to present a solid front at all times.

There was considerable thought that this alone would be of great influence in getting final acceptance of the EDC plan for a rearmament Germany inside the European Community framework.

RED CROSS BEGINS ADVANCE GIFTS DRIVE FOR $447,000

Solicitation to raise $447,000 in the advance gifts drive of the 1954 St. Louis Red Cross campaign began today by 175 volunteer workers. Goal of the campaign, which opens March 1, is $1,150,000.

Each of the volunteers made a contribution at a kick-off meeting yesterday at Hotel Statler. Importance of this year's drive from the standpoint of defense was pointed out by Leister Faust, general campaign chairman. He said blood, first-aid training and home nursing programs are among Red Cross activities directly associated with defense preparations.

Edwin M. Clark, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., reported 22,343 persons were served through emergency help to service men, veterans or their families. Clark, chairman of the advance gifts drive, said 109,591 pints of blood were collected by the St. Louis chapter, and 177 families were given aid in disasters.

HOUSE OK'S BILL CUTTING INTERIOR SECRETARY POWER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The House passed a bill yesterday to take away from the Secretary of Interior the power to authorize reclamation projects costing more than $5,000,000.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, would make such authorizations subject to an act of Congress. Power for the Secretary to authorize projects was given in the Reclamation Act of 1939.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT, INC. MEMBERS VISIT BUSINESSES

About 100 St. Louis business executives were visited yesterday by members of Junior Achievement, Inc., teen-age education-for-business group. The youngsters, working in teams of one boy and one girl, explained the aims and purposes of the organization. In the St. Louis area more than 2200 high school students between the ages of 15 and 21 are operating their own businesses, in the learn-by-doing program.

The visits to business leaders were in connection with Junior Achievement Week, now in progress, and the project was termed "Operation Info."

Business executives are invited to consult on pension trust departments about employee pension plans and profit-sharing plans.

prayer now, he said, is that it will never be necessary to use atomic weapons.

2. He said he is receiving daily reports from State Secretary Dulles on the Berlin conference and the talks with Molotov on pooling of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

He said that experience had given no great reasons for assuming tremendous success in the atomic talks but that we must always keep trying—some small advance might be made in the absence of advance in wider political problems. He said it was too early to tell how the matter might work out.

3. Asked whether his proposals for re-insurance of health groups will be "modified, changed or dropped," he said that it had not been suggested to him at this moment, in other words, that Secretary Hobby had not come up with any change in plan.

4. He promised to make some sort of a public report on the 2200 government employees who have been separated from the Government as "security risks."

Surprised by Interest.

He said he had not realized there was such an intense interest in the subject and had asked for a report on what had happened and what information could be put out. When a report is made to him, he added, he would use some channel to get it to reporters but he could not say at this time what the answer would be.

He said he had asked his staff last week to look into the question of "honorable" discharge letters for those leaving the Government under no suspicion. He regretted he had not asked today what had been done.

5. He said that something had to be done to keep butter from being priced out of the market and to get it used. He said he did not know what price would be fixed by the Government for next year, and recalled that he was seeing dairy representatives in the near future.

6. He laughed off an attempt to find out whether he took his coffee with cream, sugar or black, observing that the inquirer was getting rather personal. He said, however, that as an Army man, he was one of the great coffee drinkers in the

U.S. JUSTICES HEAR TIDELAND OIL PLEAS

Arguments Presented by
in Preliminary Step.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—The first round in what may be a long legal fight over the legality of the "Tidelands" oil act got under way today before the Supreme Court.

The court heard arguments by the states of Alabama and Rhode Island attacking the constitutionality of the law passed by Congress last year which gave the oil-bearing off-shore lands to coastal states.

ings to determine if the suit may be formally filed. This is a preliminary step for all suits in which the high court has original jurisdiction such as suits between states.

Defendants in the suit are four states which stand to collect oil royalties from the submerged lands—Texas, California, Louisiana and Florida. Allied with them is the Justice Department which will appear on behalf of four federal officials, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, Secretary of the Navy Robert B. Anderson and United States Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest.

The arguments were expected to continue tomorrow.

Although they are coastal states, Rhode Island and Alabama maintain the tidelands legislation penalizes them and their citizens and will benefit only the four defending states.

The two states also challenge the right of Congress to turn over to California, Texas and Louisiana more than $2,000,000 in royalties revenues which piled up while ownership of the land was disputed by the federal and state governments.

Both states also protested their fishing industries would be damaged by the legislation. Alabama expressed fears that its fishermen would have to get licenses from neighboring states before fishing in waters within nine miles off-coast. Rhode Island said that part of the law which recognizes a nine-mile-at-sea boundary for Texas, Louisiana and Florida endangers fishing agreements with Canada.

HEAD OF RESERVE BOARD BACKS CUT IN BUSINESS TAX

William McChesney Martin Jr. Says Eisenhower Policy Will Spur Investments.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. today strongly backed the Eisenhower Administration's tax policy putting benefits to business ahead of a proposed big new individual income tax cut.

Martin, a former St. Louisan, told the Senate-House Economic Committee that many business plants and much equipment are now obsolete and business needs incentives to invest in new facilities and to develop new products.

Business tax cuts to meet these ends, he said, would do more to help offset a slight dip in the national economy than would a further big cut in income taxes paid by individuals.

President Writes to Reuther. (Meanwhile, the United Press said President Eisenhower called for "a steady, unshakable attitude of public confidence" while the American economy is in transition from war to peace. He wrote Walter Reuther, CIO president, expressing "deep conviction" that the United States could emerge from a transitional economy without seriously interfering with national growth or the steady improvement of living standards.)

(Rather than flatly rejecting Reuther's proposal for an unemployment conference, the President said he thought current consultations by the Council of Economic Advisers and others in the executive branch offered a better system for coping with economic problems.)

Martin was questioned by Senator Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) on the issue, which is developing as a major battleground between some congressional Democrats and the Administration.

Fulbright commented it was comforting to know that Martin thinks the Administration's course is wise, "even though I may not agree." Fulbright argued yesterday that the biggest problem in the economy is to increase purchasing power of consumers, not to expand production.

Difficult Choice. Martin said of course the country must aim at both production and consumption. A choice on tax cuts between these two aims would be difficult, he conceded, but he said under present conditions he would put emphasis on tax benefits aimed at helping expand production.

Martin described the Federal Reserve Board as "cautiously optimistic" over the prospect for recovery from the seven-month business decline. He said industry is rapidly reducing the load of excess stocks which piled up in 1953 and caused production slowdowns and layoffs.

"The speed and orderly nature of this adjustment is encouraging," he said. Martin added that the Federal Reserve has tried to be flexible and adaptable in adjusting the supply of money and credit to changed conditions, and will continue trying to anticipate trends which require alteration of monetary policy.

Before today's hearing got underway Representative Wolcott (Rep.), Michigan, chairman of the Economic Committee, said Democratic demands for a big new individual tax cut could lead to disastrous inflation and "hurt the very people they say they want to help."

Wolcott also is chairman of the House Banking Committee. Democratic Senators Douglas of Illinois and Fulbright tangled with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey on the issue yesterday as the Economic Committee opened weeks of hearings on President Eisenhower's economic report.

Two Assail Tax Plan. Douglas and Fulbright argued yesterday that Eisenhower's tax policy is weighted heavily in favor of more incentives to business. Actually, they said, the biggest problem is shorting up the purchasing power of consumers to buy the goods industry already can produce.

They suggested an increase in personal income tax exemptions would be the best way to assure prosperity. A $100 increase in individual exemptions would save taxpayers about two and a half billion dollars a year.

Humphrey insisted the Administration program of about $6-250,000,000 in tax cuts this year is about equally balanced between direct tax cuts for individuals and incentives for business expansion "to produce more and better jobs."

"More tax cuts from the paycheck will be of little value if there is no job to make the paycheck in the first place," Humphrey said.

Wolcott said in an interview the problem is to keep a balance between expanding production and expanding purchasing power, and said he thinks the Administration program does just that.

6000 PERSONS ICEBOUND ON EAST FRISIAN ISLANDS

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—More than 6000 persons were icebound on islands off the German and Dutch coasts today as the worst winter in seven years continued to spread death and misery through Europe.

Weather forecasters said the freezeup may hang on until week end. Losses from stalled transport and worker absenteeism were counted in the millions of dollars.

Airlifts dropped food, medicine and other vital supplies needed by the 6000 residents of the East Frisian Isles off the German North Sea coast. All but two of the island were cut off from the mainland by ice.

FILLING STATION MAN IS SHOT IN HOLDUP

Two Robbers Flee With $100 After Fight With Three Employees.

An attendant was shot in a fight between two robbers and three employees of the Thoni gasoline station, 4610 Page boulevard, early today.

The wounded man was Dorris Deshels, 42 years old, 4448 Delmar boulevard. Shot in the right shoulder, he was treated at City Hospital and sent home at his own request.

Samuel Vincent, manager of the station, told police that two Negroes, one carrying a kerosene can, entered the station. One man drew a revolver and demanded money.

Deshels and Kenneth Webb, another attendant, were asleep on a platform about seven feet above the floor. Awakened by the commotion, Webb and Deshels jumped off the platform and sought to overpower the robbers.

A brief struggle ensued. Vincent obtained a revolver and fired one shot. A robber fired twice, one bullet striking Deshels.

The robbers broke loose, grabbed a box containing $100 and ran out a back door. Vincent said he thinks his shot wounded one of the holdup men.

One Transit Operating District Allowed if Voters Approve Plan

Freeholders Seek to Allay Fears Many Separate Areas Would Be Set Up Under Public Ownership.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine) Only one transit operating district could be created by the proposed metropolitan transit commission and then only in the event it received voter approval to enter into public operation of the mass transit system, Donaid Gunn, a member of the transit board of freeholders, said last night.

Gunn and other members of the joint St. Louis-St. Louis county board of freeholders that prepared the plan for a metropolitan transit district, addressed a public meeting on the plan at Ritenour Senior High School in Breckenridge Hills.

Seeking to clear up misapprehensions that a multiplicity of subdistricts might be created, with individual taxing powers, Gunn explained only one "subdistrict" as the operating district would be called, could be created, and this only for purposes of public ownership and operation.

Coverage for Area Served. "While the proposed metropolitan district would embrace the whole of St. Louis and St. Louis county for its primary purpose of regulating mass transit operations, it was felt that if it went into public operation, the public operation ought to cover only those people actually served by it," he said.

"The solution was a 'subdistrict.' It would be only a means of separating those areas actually served from areas not served. But only one subdistrict would be created."

Gunn explained that a vote of the people of the operating district would be required on a bond issue before the transit commission could go into public operation.

If general obligation bonds were authorized, then the "subdistrict" would have the right to levy taxes to pay the principal and interest on these bonds, but only in the event revenue from the public operation was insufficient. The operating subdistrict could not levy taxes for operating expenses, he emphasized.

75 Persons at Hearing. Last night's meeting, fourth in a series of six to acquaint the public with details of the plan and to obtain suggestions for its improvement before it is submitted to the voters of city and county, was attended by more than 75 persons, largest audience to date.

In answer to a question by Michael J. Carroll, 9744 Midland boulevard, Overland, Gunn conceded that as service was extended to new areas, those areas would be taken into the operating district and would become liable for any taxes required to service bonds although they had no voice in approving the bonds originally.

He pointed out, however, that this is the time-honored method by which municipalities extend their boundaries.

On the subject of meeting costs involved solely in regulation, as distinct from public ownership, Alfred Schindler, another freeholder, asserted the transit commission would have the power to meet part of these costs by assessments on the private companies under regulation, but not more than the companies presently pay to the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The remainder of the costs would be met, on a pro rata basis, from general revenues of city and county.

Carl Giessow, 3745 Lindell boulevard, raised the question whether the rights of the transit commission to regulate traffic on routes used by transit vehicles would be superior to the rights of municipalities and, in case where the streets and highways were built with federal funds, the rights of the federal government.

Robert B. Brooks, a freeholder and former member of the Missouri Highway Commission, answered that the transit commission would be supreme in both cases with respect to speed and parking matters but that it could not bar specific types of vehicles from highways constructed with federal funds.

Use of Controls. Gunn pointed out the transit commission would not interfere in any case in which a municipality was doing a good job of traffic control, but would exercise traffic control only where it was deemed necessary to improve mass transit.

Several citizens inquired whether the transit commission would order service extended to areas not now served and whether additional fares might be imposed for this service.

Martin Jaeger, a freeholder and chairman of the meeting, said these questions could only be determined in specific instances after the commission performs its first major responsibility—a comprehensive survey of the transit needs of the entire area and how best to meet them. No guarantees as to service or fares could be offered until that is done, he said.

Another meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the jury assembly room of Clayton Courthouse. The final hearing will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Bristol School, Gray and Lockwood avenues, Webster Groves.

AFL Blames Mortgage Bankers' Rates for High Cost of Housing

George Meany Says Direct Labor Expense Has Declined, in Terms of 'Real Wages.'

By SPENCER K. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—The American Federation of Labor contends that high housing costs are primarily attributable to interest required by mortgage bankers while direct labor costs have declined.

This contention was advanced by George Meany, president of the AFL, at conclusion of an executive council session yesterday which resulted in criticism of President Eisenhower's low cost private housing proposals as "unrealistic" although well intended.

Meany maintained that the cost of financing was the greatest obligation incurred by the average purchaser of a house. In terms of "real wages," he continued, direct labor costs have declined during the last 15 years.

Bricklayer Wages Cited. In support of this claim, Meany said that a bricklayer received $2.37 an hour in 1938 and now gets $3.37 an hour. He maintained that the current wage rate in purchasing power is equivalent to $1.85 in real wages as of 1938. The over-all actual labor cost, Meany added, has been cut because of the use of hoisting machinery and advent of materials which require smaller forces of labor in building a housing unit. Material costs, it was pointed out, have advanced.

Asked by the Post-Dispatch whether, in some instances, as in St. Louis "featherbedding" production restriction, illicit practices on the part of some unions had contributed unduly to construction costs, Meany asserted that "charges of featherbedding and practices of bricklayers have been repeatedly made, and have been the subject of congressional inquiries but they have never stood up."

In describing the Administration's low cost private housing plan as "unrealistic," the executive council said new homes it would provide would cost on a monthly basis almost twice as much as low-income families can afford. It was roughly estimated that a typical expense would be $70 for a family which could not afford more than $35 monthly.

'Mere Token,' Council Says. The proposal to build 35,000 units a year was regarded by the council as "a mere token in relation to need."

Analyzing the entire housing program of the Administration, the council summed it up, in effect, as inadequate. The accepted prospect for this year, it stated, is for construction of 1,000,000 urban residential units, "only slightly higher than a five-year average between 1923 and 1927." However, since 1923 there has been an increase of 40,000,000 in the population. Housing shortages were aggravated during the depression years and by curtailment of private building in World War II, it was pointed out.

The AFL estimated that between now and 1960 residential building should be at the rate of 2,000,000 units a year. The housing need cannot be met or national prosperity maintained, the council stated, if residential construction is held to half that rate.

"Central emphasis on the Administration's approach," the council said, "is on rehabilitation and remodeling of existing dwellings instead of new construction. The housing needs of modern America cannot be met by a patch-up program."

"City and rural slums must be wiped out, not camouflaged. Replanning and redevelopment of our cities and towns must measure up to modern living and industrial requirements and provide for healthy future growth."

Slum Clearance Urged. "Slum clearance must go hand in hand with new public housing to assure accommodations to those displaced."

The council said that while new financial incentives and protections for speculative builders, real estate and mortgage lending institutions have been proposed, no remedy has been offered for failure of private builders to construct homes that middle-income families can afford. Nor is there protection for home purchasers for defects in houses they buy.

Declaring that the Administration's housing program fails to achieve the goal of "a good home for every American family," the council advanced four suggestions which it recommended for incorporation in an "urgently needed bold and comprehensive program."

Four Housing Proposals. The AFL proposals were: Construction as soon as possible of at least 600,000 units of low-cost public housing in the next three years.

An urban redevelopment program providing necessary financial assistance to cities for slum clearance, rebuilding and replanning of metropolitan areas to meet modern requirements.

Government assistance for middle income housing, especially through long-term, low-cost loans for co-operative and

MARILYN MONROE TO MAKE 4-DAY VISIT TO KOREA

TOKYO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe will make a four-day visit to Korea, including frontline units, in a few days.

The Army made the announcement today, adding somewhat unnecessarily, "She will be most welcome."

"I have wanted to go to Korea to see the boys for a long time," the blonde actress said, adding that her movie schedules had made it impossible. "Now, even though I am on my honeymoon, I have the chance to go—and I'm going for at least four days."

The Far East Command said Miss Monroe's tentative schedule calls for the trip to start Feb. 14 or 15.

2 GROUPS URGE GREATER STATE VOICE ON LABOR

Council of Chambers of Commerce and Mining Congress — 2 Union Leaders Heard.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—The Council of State Chambers of Commerce told the Senate Labor Committee today there is a growing "no man's land" between federal and state jurisdiction in labor matters which should be narrowed by law.

Gilbert L. Klein of Milwaukee, vice chairman of the Council, which represents 28 state and regional Chambers of Commerce, including Missouri, pointed out that the new National Labor Relations Board is substantially limiting the number of cases it regards as within its jurisdiction.

At the same time, he said, the authority of states to act in labor disputes has been cut down by court decisions.

"Consistent Whacking Away."

"There has been a consistent whacking away at the tail of the cat until today there is little left but his whiskers," Klein told the committee, which is considering amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act.

A pending amendment, recommended by President Eisenhower, would give states the right to act in local emergencies, and he suggested that the committee study the entire field of federal and state jurisdiction in labor matters. The Taft-Hartley Act, as did the Wagner Act before it, contains a statement of policy that the Federal Government, in matters that affect commerce, believes in collective bargaining as conducive to industrial peace.

Klein, pleading for more state control of labor, said it made about as much sense to have local labor disputes controlled by Washington as it did to move local fire departments to Washington.

Mining Congress Plea.

The American Mining Congress, the national organization of the mining industry, also asked the committee to enlarge the area of state control over labor matters.

Denison Kitchel, attorney of Phoenix, Ariz., said a recent Supreme Court decision relating to the picketing of a Pennsylvania trucking firm indicated the need for an amendment which would restore to the states their right to regulate strikes and picketing.

In that decision the court found that where an employer had a remedy under both state and federal law he had to take his case to the National Labor Relations Board rather than to the state courts.

James B. Carey, president of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, and Woodruff Randolph, president of the AFL International Typographical Union, objected to just about all of the pending amendments and to the law itself.

Carey said the committee ought to realize that it is not dealing solely with domestic labor relations, but that it is dealing with an issue of democratic leadership which will have repercussions in the world-wide struggle against Communism.

"I warn that where this committee, and the United States Congress, fail or prove derelict," Carey said, "the Communists will succeed. Both in the United States and throughout the world they will capitalize on whatever mistakes of commission or omission you make."

Randolph, in his statement, said the President's proposals now before the committee are much ado about nothing.

"Some slick salesmen," he said, "try to convince us that the Taft-Hartley jolopy can be made into a modern car by wiping the dust off the windshield. I do not believe that working people will be so easily fooled."

Republican members of the House Labor Committee were represented by Speaker Martin (Rep.), Massachusetts, as favorable to Taft-Hartley law changes proposed by the President.

The Republicans, constituting a majority of the committee, met with Martin and other G.O.P. House leaders.

Martin said there was general agreement among the Republican members in favor of the President's recommendation for a government-sponsored vote, to learn whether the majority of workers concerned in a labor-management dispute want to go on strike.

Mitchell Expects Most Changes To Be Voted Quickly.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said last night he expects most of President Eisenhower's Taft-Hartley proposals to "be enacted into legislation speedily."

One proposal, he said, dealing with Government-conducted secret ballots in strikes, probably would take "special consideration" because it "has been the subject of some misunderstanding."

The Labor Secretary expressed the hope, however, that discussion of the strike vote proposal in Congress would be "not too prolonged."

In a speech on the ABC radio network's "America's Town Meeting of the Air," Mitchell said he was "optimistic about the prospects of obtaining sound and helpful amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act" this year.

Most of the President's proposals, he said, seem to have received "widespread support."

CHARGES DENIAL OF BENEFITS

A special committee of Central Trades & Labor Union delegates was named last night to inquire into reports that AFL members are being deprived of lawful unemployment benefits. Larry Connors, representing Machinists District 9, told the meeting, at Carpenters Hall, that unemployment claims are opposed by lawyers representing which they are entitled, Connors asserted.

HOW AMERICA IS CHANGING

Although our cities are growing, nearly half our population growth in 10 years has been in the suburbs of our big cities.

America is going suburban...

In our 12 largest metropolitan areas, 72% of their growth between 1940 and 1950 was in the suburbs!

In this shift to the suburbs, there's been a growing need for more homes... for more apartment dwellings... for more branch stores and shops.

Life insurance funds are playing a major role in this changing picture by financing much of this building activity.

For example, a large portion of the funds needed to build housing developments and rental dwellings has come from the life insurance companies.

And as more and more people have moved to the suburbs and bought homes of their own, the life insurance companies have invested an increasing amount of their policyholders' funds in home mortgages.

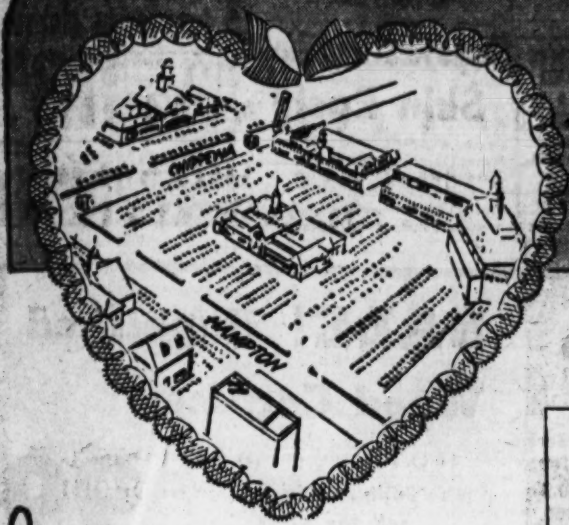

In addition, these funds have helped finance the building of many of the shops, stores and small factories you see sprouting up in the suburbs.

Of course, the main reason people buy life insurance is for the protection and security of their families. But, until the funds paid in are returned as benefits, they are used as investment money to help the community and the country as a whole. And at the same time, the interest they earn helps keep down the cost of life insurance.

HOUSE APPROVES CONGRESSIONAL PENSION REVISION

Measure Liberalizing System Is Amended and Sent Back to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Without discussion or opposition, the House passed yesterday a bill liberalizing the congressional pension system. The measure was passed without a vote under procedure which would have permitted a single objection to block it.

An original Senate bill, it was designed at first to liberalize the retirement program for legislative employees and to provide survivors' benefits for widows and children of these employees.

The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee added provisions affecting congressional retirement and the House approved the provisions and sent the amended measure back to the Senate.

Principal changes in the members' retirement plan are these:

1. Annuities would be provided for widows and children of members who die in service. These now are limited to widows and children of retired members.

2. Computations for annuities would be based on any five consecutive years of service. They now are based on the average annual salary of a member. For some older members whose service dates back to the time when congressional pay was $7500 annually instead of the present $15,000, this would mean more retirement pay. It also would mean more retirement pay for present members if pending proposals to raise congressional salaries are put into effect.

3. Credit would be given to members for up to five years of past military service. Present law allows credit only for military service performed by a member who leaves office to enter service. The proposed law would not require members to make deposits into the retirement fund for the period of their military service. In effect, it means that if a member served 10 years in the House and had five years of prior military service, his retirement pay would be based on 15 years of congressional service.

4. Members would be allowed to retire at age 55 if they have a minimum of 10 years of service; those retiring at this age would receive a reduced annuity. Full benefits would be paid to members retiring at age 60 if they have 10 years of service. Present law provides for full benefits at age 62 after six years of service.

The bill makes no changes in the method of paying into the retirement fund—6 per cent of he had five years of previous military service.

a member's pay annually—nor does it change the rate of payments to a member out of the fund—2½ per cent of the annual pay multiplied by the number of years of service, with a top of 75 per cent of full pay.

Under present law, a member would receive the maximum retirement benefits, 75 per cent of his annual pay, if he had paid into the fund for 30 years. Under the proposed new law, he could receive the maximum by paying in for only 25 years if Ever add up the TAXES you pay with your TELEPHONE bill?

YOU PAY $3.23 PER MONTH IN TAXES WITH THE AVERAGE TELEPHONE BILL

$1.72 per month OPERATING TAXES

$1.51 per month LUXURY TAX

PLUS 12¢ PER MONTH STATE SALES TAX

WHEN YOU PAY your telephone bill, here's the part that goes for the kind of taxes all businesses share — state, county, and city property taxes, income taxes, and other levies to support the cost of government. Last year, our total operating taxes in Missouri amounted to $21,300,000, or $1.72 per telephone per month. Because these taxes are paid directly by the company, they are included in the basic price you pay for telephone service.

MOST PEOPLE THINK of telephone service as a necessity. Yet telephone service carries a Federal excise tax — in most cases a tax levied on "luxuries." This tax is levied directly against you — as a user of telephone service. The telephone company acts only as a collecting agent. Last year, Missourians paid $18,600,000 in direct Federal and state taxes on telephone service, or $1.39 per month per telephone in Federal excise tax, and 12 cents per month per telephone in state sales tax.

THE FEDERAL EXCISE TAX IS OVER AND ABOVE the rates you pay for telephone service. This wartime "luxury" tax adds 15 per cent to the cost of your local service and long distance calls under 25¢, and 25 per cent to long distance calls of 25¢ or more. When you subtract this tax from your bill and consider the real cost of telephone service alone, it is an even better bargain than you may have thought.

TABLE ROCK NEEDED, HENNINGS ARGUES

He Seeks Immediate Release of Funds Frozen Last Year.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—An impounded fund of nearly $2,400,000 for work on the Table

Rock Dam on the White river in southwest Missouri should be released immediately and an additional $3,000,000 should be appropriated so contracts for the man dam can be let, Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., St. Louis Democrat, said here today.

In letters to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, Hennings said that funds already appropriated for the public power and flood control project were held up last year by an appropriations subcommittee pending a further study of the area's power needs by the Army engineers.

He declared that there can be no excuse "for withholding any longer the funds needed to carry on the work which was already under way and for which more than $3,000,000 had already been allotted before the present 'freeze'."

He said the Army Engineers' estimate of the cost of power from Table Rock is 4.7 mills a kilowatt hour, compared with a cost of 6.9 mills a kilowatt hour from an alternative steam generating plant.

The engineers have a large contract prepared for letting for the project but they must have sufficient funds to carry over the contract for the balance of the fiscal year from the time the contract is let.

Therefore, he continued, $2,349,546 in frozen carry-over funds should be released and new construction funds should be appropriated to "avoid further needless delay" on the project.

Table Rock Dam would cost about $78,610,000, of which $61-

450,000 would be spent on the actual power installation and the rest on flood control features of the dam. Army engineers estimated that annual charges for operation of the dam would be about $3,241,000 and that benefits through sale of power would total $3,735,000. In addition, the engineers estimated that there would be an annual benefit of $950,000 in terms of property - damage prevention through the dam's flood control features.

120,000 EVADE FILING STATE INCOME TAXES

'Little Hoover' Commission Told That Funds Are Needed for Auditing and Checking.

By the Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—An estimated 120,000 persons now are evading filing of annual state income tax returns in Missouri, despite stepped-up auditing activities of the State Department of Revenue, the State Reorganization (Little Hoover) Commission was informed yesterday afternoon.

Thomas R. Allen, supervisor of the income tax division of the department, testifying on methods of improving service, said the division had added 90,000 income taxpayers to the roll in the last three years. Tax rolls now show about 500,000 income returns subject to taxation are filed annually, and about 200,000, classed as nontaxable, are filed in a year, Allen said.

Only Scratched Surface. "Detection of those who evade filing returns is an auditing matter," Allen told the survey group. "Last year by direct audit we collected an additional $800,000, but we have only scratched the surface. There is only one answer to dealing with evasions. That is adequate appropriations to provide enough personnel to do the necessary auditing and checking."

He pointed out the division has access to records on federal returns filed from the state and other information on payrolls. "We have the sources to determine who is dodging taxes," Allen said. "What we need is trained personnel to do the necessary auditing."

Collections of the state income tax now total about $25,500,000 a year. Allen's division also handles collection of state inheritance, intangible and corporation franchise taxes.

Changes in County Urged. Carl V. Elmbeck, a member of the St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners, urged the commission to recommend election law changes which would enable the board to employ an adequate staff to prepare for elections and to provide adequate compensation for employees.

He said the board has only eight permanent employees, paid an average of $8 a day, while the election board in St. Louis, with about double the county population, is permitted by law to have 44 regular employees at higher pay scales.

Waggoner's Proposal. Legislation to provide a retirement system for members of the State Highway Patrol was urged by Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner. He said such security should be made available to patrolmen of long service and noted the department roster of 320 men included many who had been in the service since the patrol was established in 1931. Waggoner said he had no other recommendations as "we are getting along in pretty good shape."

leave of absence, which it could do.

He is under no obligation to return to the company, but he likes the company and likes to live in California. The company wants him to return to its employ after his Government service, and he expects to return to it.

Cooper Changes Stand. The break within the committee came last night when Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep.), Kentucky, swung over to the Democratic side and said he had become convinced it was necessary to get the testimony of Paul L. Davies, president of Food Machinery and Chemical Corp., to clarify Beeson's status with the company and determine whether there would be any conflict of interest if he should be confirmed to the NLRB.

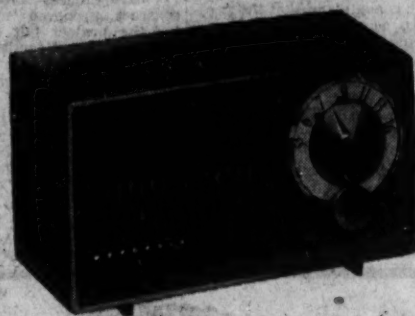

Chairman Smith saw which way the wind was blowing and joined Cooper and three Democrats who stuck through the six-hour session. Three Republicans, Purtell, Goldwater and Upton, were for forgetting about the whole thing.

GETS REAL ESTATE POST

Daniel F. Sheehan, partner in the Dolan Co. Realtors, was installed last night as regional vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at a dinner in Washington.

Sheehan, 7206 Northmoor drive, University City, will be engaged in the board's plans to broaden the "build America better" program of urban rehabilitation and slum elimination on a city-by-city basis.

CONFEREES AT ODDS ON FARM AID FUNDS

House Allows CCC $741,548,788 but Senate Cuts It by Two Thirds.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Senate and House conferees broke up in angry disagreement last night over a bill designed to continue financing of farm price support operations. The House version of the measure allowed $741,548,788 to the commodity credit corporation but the Senate slashed this to $245,000,000. The bill reimburses CCC for losses it has suffered, mainly in price support operations. The Senate contended the agency has not proved all the losses it claimed in the measure. Senator Bridges (Rep., New Hampshire, head of the Senate conferees, told reporters "the House was adamant in its position and we're standing pat." The conferees did not even try to set a time for another meeting. "We're not in any hurry," Bridges said. However, Howard Gordon, head of the CCC who was waiting outside the conference room with his aids, told reporters his agency would be able to get along for only a few weeks. He said CCC was proceeding on the assumption it would get a minimum of $245,000,000 out of the reimbursement bill since that much was allowed by the Senate, and any compromise would contain at least that amount. Last Friday, when the Senate originally was scheduled to act on the bill, CCC officials said they might have to send out telegrams shutting down the price support program if the measure were not passed immediately. But Gordon said last night no such notices would be necessary for the time being at least. Meanwhile, he said, CCC would make another telegraphic survey of all its county loan committees to try to determine the agency's actual financial position. It was such a survey conducted last month which convinced CCC officials they had used up all but $16,000,000 of their $6,750,000,000 in lending authority Jan. 22.

EAST SIDE PLANE VICTIM'S BODY RECOVERED IN LAKE

The body of Karl Marlinghaus, one of four East St. Louisans killed Jan. 3 when their light plane crashed in Lake Pontchartrain, was recovered from the lake on Monday, it was reported yesterday at New Orleans.

Marlinghaus, 46 years old, was general foreman for an East St. Louis contracting firm and lived at 703 North Forty-first street with his wife and three sons. The body of Mrs. Marlinghaus, who died in the crash, was recovered Jan. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlinghaus were flying with Marvin E. Gray, a contractor, 54 Hilltop drive, and Mrs. Gray, when the plane plunged into the lake shortly after a takeoff from the New Orleans airport. Gray's body was recovered from the plane wreckage. The body of Mrs. Gray is still missing.

SECRECY ON WELFARE
HEARINGS CRITICIZED

Editors Ask Illinois Board to Lift Bar on Reporters Attending.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Two Illinois newspaper editors, serving as "the people's representatives," have requested the Illinois Budgetary Commission to lift its secrecy in investigating Illinois Welfare Department spending.

M. J. Gagle, executive editor of the Danville Commercial News, and Basil L. Walters, executive editor of Knight Newspapers, Inc., head freedom of information committees which are defending the public's "right to know" the facts in government operations.

Gagle made public a letter he sent to the commission chairman, Senator Everett R. Peters (Rep.), St. Joseph, on Jan. 26 asking that future hearings be opened to public scrutiny. News men have been barred from the hearings which opened in November.

Gagle said former Illinois Democratic Governor, Adlai E. Stevenson, had permitted open hearings on budget matters affecting the State Welfare Department. He also asserted that President Eisenhower and Attorney General Brownell have made "a fine start" on the national level in "the lifting of the synthetic and silly security bans inaugurated by their Democratic predecessors."

Gagle is chairman of the Illinois Freedom of Information Committee, a group of newsmen working actively for the elimination of unnecessary secrecy. Walters, vice president of the Chicago Daily News and chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, did not make public his Jan. 27 letter to Peters except to say he heartily endorsed the points raised in Gagle's letter.

Walters also conferred on the matter with Gov. William Stratton. He found Stratton "very friendly" and in agreement on the need for freedom of information but said that the Governor took the position the immediate problem was one between the newsmen and Peters.

Peters' committee has been calling in officials of state hospitals and other state welfare institutions in an effort to determine whether sound policies are being followed in the expenditure of state funds and whether any savings are possible. Peters was reported on vacation and not available for comment on the letters.

MOTHER DIES AFTER SON IS NAMED MAN OF THE YEAR

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 3 (AP)—A mother who wept tears of happiness last night as her son was named Punxsutawney's man of the year collapsed and died a short time after she left the celebration.

Mrs. Mae McCauley, 78 years old, was stricken as she stepped from an automobile in front of her home.

Her son, Dr. Louis R. McCauley, a physician, was selected man of the year by popular vote in a ballot conducted in this northwestern Pennsylvania community for the last two weeks. The award was made at the annual dinner of the Punxsutawney Groundhog club.

SWERVES JET TO AVOID HOMES BUT HITS FACTORY

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.) GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex., Feb. 3 (UP)—Witnesses said today the pilot of an F-80 jet fighter apparently swerved to avoid a group of houses before his plane crashed into a boat factory, killing two persons. The Pilot, Capt. James C. Smith of nearby Dallas, was in a hospital with facial lacerations.

The plane burst into flames when it hit a stack of finished boats and lodged in the back of the factory, where some 250 persons were working. Smith released the seat ejector as he was about to crash, and was thrown clear of the wreckage. Police identified the dead as George Lee Tucker, 52 years old, of Arlington, Tex., and William M. Slagle, 51, of Dallas, employees of the Lone Star Boat Co.

Growing Asia Crisis Compelling U.S. to Consider Taking More Drastic Action in Indochina

National Security Council Studies Plan for All-Out Air, Naval Support—Radford Believed to Have Revived Proposal for Blockade of China.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
WASHINGTON.

THIS is one of those queer moments when the real news and the news on the front pages tend to diverge. Congress is wrestling with the Bricker amendment. The White House is pressing a massive legislative program. In Berlin, Molotov is talking. So we are told every day.

What we are not told, is that another major Asian crisis is quite probably on the way. So far as America is concerned, this large, unattractive, uncomfortable fact seems to be regarded as one of the secrets of the National Security Council, where the new Asian crisis is being anxiously and continuously discussed.

Gravity of Crisis.

The measure of the gravity of the crisis is given by the character of the proposals now before the NSC. Reportedly, the decision has already been taken to aid the French in Indochina, where the crisis centers, by sending them 400 mechanized and maintenance troops from the American Air Force units in the Far East. The number is not large. But surely there is great significance in this decision to send American troops to Indochina, not for training purposes, but to assist directly in the struggle there.

Nor is this all. One of the official projects now before the National Security Council calls for giving the French in Indochina all-out American air and naval support. In the circles of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arthur Radford, is authoritatively understood to have revived his plan of a naval blockade of the China coast. There is no prospect, at present, that such drastic steps will actually be taken. The signs are all the other way. But the mere fact that such steps should be discussed at all speaks volumes.

There is a reason why the new Asian crisis is causing such concern in the inner circles of the Administration, yet attracting so little attention from the rest of the world. In effect, the immediate danger is not in Indochina, but in Paris. The French mood is such that the French government will abandon the Indochinese struggle if their forces in Indochina merely suffer a serious reverse. Of this the American government has been plainly warned, officially and unofficially.

This means, in turn, that nothing very grandiose has happened in Indochina, in order to open the gateway of south Asia to the onward march of Communist imperialism. The French and Viet Nam forces do not have to be decisively and finally defeated, to produce an acutely hazardous situation. They need only suffer the kind of setbacks that will finally sap the much weakened will of France to carry on the war. Maybe not straw, but hardly more than a twig can break the camel's back.

Waning Strength.

The problem this creates for Gen. Navarre and Gen. Cogny is obviously very difficult. Generals cannot guarantee not to

Martin's Tax Compromise Plan Stirs Up Wrath of Treasury

Officials Protest Vigorously to President—Incident Shows How Closely Deficit Is Figured.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1954.)

WASHINGTON. TREASURY DEPARTMENT chiefs are hopping mad at the man who's piloting the Eisenhower program through the House of Representatives—amiable, hard-working Speaker Joe Martin. Martin came out with a compromise plan for dropping excise taxes which will cost the Treasury one billion dollars and both Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Assistant Secretary Randolph Burgess are most unhappy.

They have communicated their views vigorously to the President, who is having a session with Martin.

The issue is much more important than any clash between important personalities. It illustrates how closely the present government deficit has been figured, and how carefully the Treasury will have to tax in order not to go deeper in the red.

What happened was that Dan Reed, 78-year-old ruler of the House Ways and Means Committee, proposed ending excise taxes. Excise taxes which now bring in three and a half billion a year are due to expire in April and Reed would not renew them. The Treasury feels that this money is desperately needed.

Hoping to keep peace between the Treasury and the man who rules the tax-writing committee on Capitol Hill, Speaker Martin proposed a compromise. He suggested splitting the difference.

Even this drop, however, gave Humphrey and Burgess a jolt. They are scratching around for every penny they can lay hands on. That is why they're taking

Action Areas in Indochina

Arrows indicate approximate course of Red-Vietnamese forces in northern Indochina. One of the forces, moving south from the Dien Bien Phu area, is regarded as a major threat to the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang and possibly to Vientiane to the south. The second force apparently is aimed at the Red river delta. In the narrow central part of the country, Thakhek and Pakse are under increasing rebel pressure. In the far south, large scale defection of Viet Nam troops to the Reds has occurred in the Saigon area. Along the southeast coast, between Fao and Cap Varella, French forces have made some gains in the fight to oust the entrenched Vietminh.

ITALIAN RED CHIEF DEMANDS PLACE IN NEXT GOVERNMENT

ROME, Feb. 3 (AP)—Italy's powerful Communists today demanded a place in the next government for themselves or their allies, claiming this would put the nation "on the high road" to stability.

Falimiro Togliatti, chief of the largest Communist party in the Western world, repeated his old demand in a meeting with Italian President Luigi Einaudi, whose Communists and allied Socialists now control more than 37 percent of the seats in the Chamber of Deputies, also said he protested to Einaudi against the short-lived Fanfani government.

Christian Democrat Fanfani had promised a crackdown on Communists if his cabinet survived. Einaudi has been conferring with political leaders in an effort to get a new government. Last night, former Premier Alcide De Gasperi, who held the post eight times, emerged from a meeting with Einaudi to say "we are only at the beginning of the government crisis."

THREATENED TUGBOAT STRIKE IN NEW YORK IS POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—A threatened strike of tugboat crewmen that would have crippled New York harbor and cut off a large part of the city's food and fuel supplies was postponed today.

The action came after an all-night mediation session, at which union representatives agreed to submit a new management offer to the membership Sunday afternoon.

"In the meantime, the status quo will be maintained until after the meeting," Joseph E. O'Grady, director of the city's division of labor relations, said. Last midnight's deadline for the walkout passed without incident because negotiation sessions were continuing.

Kremlin Again Tries to Cause Yugoslav Split

Soviets Try to Make Use of Any Unrest, Play on Western Doubts.

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst.

YUGOSLAVIA has been going through political gyrations lately which leave Western observers confused, except for the fact that if the Russians don't like it, the changes must be all right.

On the face of it, long-scheduled changes in parliamentary forms seem merely to solidify the entrenchment in power of Tito's Communist league.

In the latter days of reorganization, an anti-western tinge developed through the ouster of Milovan Djilas from the central committee, and the presidency of Parliament.

Seeming Concessions.

However, the reorganization has been preceded by several years of seeming concessions to the people of Yugoslavia. Resistance to communism, especially in agriculture, played a part in developing Tito policies which resulted in the original break with the Cominform. Since then the Belgrade government has been playing the people like a fisherman hooked to a big one, first tightening the line and then loosening it.

Western observers have never agreed whether democracy was making gains. Many decrees have indicated it might be. Administration of the decrees has raised broad doubts.

The Government has insisted it was going its own course, and denied the infiltration of Western ideas. That was the peg used for the elimination of Djilas—that he was advocating Western ideas. There were, however, a great many personalities involved in his case, which probably overshadowed ideology in the final result.

New Cominform Efforts.

Now the Cominform is renewing its efforts to insert itself into the situation. It gives lip service to the Kremlin's recent line that there is nothing to prevent a reunion between Yugoslavia and the Soviet bloc. The obvious intent is to stir up such trouble as it can between the Tito government and the Yugoslav people.

In spite of its sweet words on

East German Opposition to Reds Becoming Open and Widespread

Many Refuse to Sign Petition Concerning Big Four Talks — Resistance an Outgrowth of June Uprisings.

By DAVID M. NICHOL

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio Copyright 1954.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.

TO AN astonishing extent the people of the Soviet zone of Germany are expressing open opposition to the plans of their Communist leaders.

This groundswell is different from the discontent and misery that produced the spontaneous demonstrations of last June, but it is a direct outgrowth of them. Having shaken their Soviet puppet government to its foundations last year, the people of the Soviet zone no longer live in the same hopeless resignation.

Their feelings have been expressed most plainly during a Communist campaign to obtain signatures on petitions asking that delegations of both East and West German governments be admitted to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

Communist authorities have announced with much propaganda that more than 8,500,000 persons have placed their names on these lists. This would be an impressive figure, if it were a trustworthy one. The total population of East Germany is only 18,000,000.

For all the ballyhoo, there is a thinly veiled note of alarm and concern in the Communists' accounts of this campaign. Truth is many of the people are refusing to sign the petitions when they are presented to them. "We'd like to think this over," they say.

No Reprisals Risked. Less than a year ago such open resistance would have brought at the very least a summons to the local police or party authorities. So stubborn and widespread is the present opposition that no reprisals have been risked.

Karl Mewis, an influential member of the East German Communist central committee, warned a gathering recently in Rostock that party officials must several occasions, there can be little doubt of the Kremlin's deep hatred of Tito.

The Kremlin, however, chooses to make its attack from the oblique, with multiple objectives. It wants to play on any unrest in Yugoslavia. It wants to encourage the fear, never quite dissipated in the West, that Tito is insincere in his promises of co-operation with the anti-Communist front, and that there is always a possibility of his returning to the Cominform fold. And it wants, from this same angle, to undermine the Balkan entente recently formed by Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey.

Stevenson Favors Board To Seek Reds

Calls for Commission of Top Citizens to Fight Subversion.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 3.

ADLAI STEVENSON favors setting up a high level commission of distinguished citizens to ferret out subversives in the Federal Government.

His position was disclosed yesterday in a letter replying to the request of Starr Smith, Tuscaloosa radio announcer, that Stevenson amplify a comment he made last fall.

At a press conference at Montgomery, Ala., the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate said he favored ferreting out subversives in a dignified way, but declined to elaborate.

In his letter Stevenson suggested that the commission of citizens could be patterned after the royal commissions of Great Britain, or it could be a joint House-Senate committee.

Stevenson said there is a need to restore "dignity" to investigation of Communist activities. He told Smith "I'm sure you understand" what he meant by that "in view of the congressional investigation, 'get-in-the-act' subpenas, (Attorney General Herbert Brownell's attack on (former) President Truman, etc."

Stevenson acknowledged that a "dignified" approach to Communist investigation might be worked out without a special commission, under certain conditions.

"It seems to me that even the present system will work if public officials will address themselves to the job rather than partisan politics and personal publicity," he said.

DONNELLY APPOINTS GROUP FOR WHITE HOUSE PARLEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch, Feb. 3.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—Appointment of a 41-member committee to represent Missouri at a White House conference on highway safety was announced by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly yesterday.

The conference, called by President Eisenhower, will be held Feb. 17, 18 and 19. Representing Missouri will be of agriculture, business, labor, the press and various civic organizations.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Third Time Is Charm

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Some years ago, when I was having lunch with the toastmaster general of St. Louis, your Mr. Joseph P. Holland, he introduced me to a friend who approached our table at the Jefferson Hotel.

An hour or so later, at his City Hall office, (Holland was then City Counselor) the same gentleman came in while we were continuing our conversation, and I was introduced again.

It sort of embarrassed both of us, and while we were stuttering something or other, Joe interrupted with: "That's all right, the third time I introduce him, you get to keep him."

All of which has to do with the loyalty clearance of John Paton Davies Jr., now back in this country for another loyalty, or security clearance, as the phrase goes now.

May we assume that the next time he is cleared he gets to keep it?

Washington.

Paraphrasing Sir Winston

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Appropos of the proposed Bricker Amendment, Eisenhower might paraphrase Churchill: "I have not been elected to preside over the dissolution of the Union."

G. E. CASTILE.

Bureau's Short Count

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Census Bureau has learned a thing or two about keeping "unemployment" down. For example, if you are laid off, but hope to get back on the same payroll in 30 days, you're not unemployed.

Also you are not unemployed if you're an older who's been culled out of the work force and you're not pursuing the hopeless search for a new master.

In some industries, unemployment has been held to a minimum by "sharing the work," cutting the work week to 20 hours or so. You might starve on 20 hours' pay, but you're not "unemployed."

As Business Week points out in its Jan. 16 issue, "If you counted all the people who might have worked in December but didn't, unemployment would have been a good deal higher than the Census Bureau's estimate of 1,850,000."

HENRY W. GENCK.

A Team Tackles Douglas

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Illinois Republicans have 11 men running for the nomination for United States Senator, and a party leader has suggested that they all campaign together, speaking from the same platform.

Of course this suggests a "team." Evidently the Republicans recognize that it will take a whole team to tackle a Senator of the stature of Douglas of Illinois.

ALton. PHYLIS NEWBERRY.

Stalemate in Government

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Almost every day reports come from Washington hopefully announcing that the President has made up his mind to fight Senator Bricker on the Bricker amendment or Senator McCarthy on the Communist issue and attacks upon the State Department or Congressman Reed on tax reductions or Congressman Taber on appropriation slashing, and so on.

This is a sad commentary on the American political scene today. Let us hope that the electorate will ponder their decision of 1952 and will not, in the future, entrust the leadership of the country to a political party whose irreconcilable differences not only create a stalemate in government and damage our prestige, but threaten our national security, our basic American freedom, our prosperity and our social welfare.

MARIAN BARNHOLTZ.
University City.

While Polishing Halos . . .

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

According to Webster, the correct spelling of the diamond surrendered to the British Crown in 1849 when the Punjab was annexed is Koh-i-noor, not Koh-i-Nor as it appeared on your front page Jan. 25.

How could such an error get by all those high-priced linotype operators, compositors and pressmen? Of course, I would not expect the editorial staff to notice such a detail. They probably were too busy polishing those halos that they wear every day—well, nearly every day.

WILLIAM J. HARRIS.
Valley Park.

Non-Religious View

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Some of the letters on the Gideon-New Jersey Supreme Court decision seem to take the attitude all Americans are Christian or other religious adherents. They forget that less than half the population belong to any church (the figure is disputed but less than half attend).

But even if the country were 99 per cent of one faith would that give that faith the right to compel others to accept it—or to have a preferred position? That is the system in Spain and many other countries, but the United States is a democracy.

NON-CHURCH

The Beeson Snafu

It is time to ask again: Who is feeding President Eisenhower his appointments to the independent regulatory agencies and commissions? Surely some of them are not being adequately checked into and cleared before the White House sends them to the Senate.

The case of Albert C. Beeson of California, nominated by the President for the National Labor Relations Board, is in point. At a Senate Labor Committee hearing 10 days ago, Senator Lehman of New York asked Mr. Beeson about an interview in the San Jose (Calif.) Mercury. In the interview the appointee was quoted as saying that he expected to return to his old job with the Food Machinery & Chemical Corp. at the end of the year. Mr. Beeson told the Senators flatly that he had not made such a statement.

Now it develops that Mr. Beeson "misunderstood the question." Summoned back before the committee, after it had reported his nomination favorably by a straight party vote, 7 to 6, the appointee says that he did say that his job was in effect being held open for him. He calls it an "honest mistake." What happened in the interim was that the San Jose Mercury stood by what it had printed. The newspaper said that Mr. Beeson had made the statement, that it knew he had made it and that it was taking nothing back.

In the wake of this, two G.O.P. members of the Senate Labor Committee, Chairman Smith of New Jersey and Senator Cooper of Kentucky, have now reversed themselves in part at least. They have voted in favor of the motion of Senator Douglas of Illinois to put aside the Beeson appointment until the committee can learn more about Mr. Beeson's obligations under the pension plan of the company from which Mr. Beeson would in effect be on leave.

All this puts Chairman Smith of the Labor Committee in an embarrassing position because he summarily cut off the first hearing with the comment that the Democratic minority was being "obstructionist." When the two parties are balanced so evenly as they are in the Senate, the chairman needs to guard against any arbitrary exercise of power. The prospect now is that the Beeson appointment will have even tougher going on the floor than did the Robert E. Lee appointment to the Federal Communications Commission.

The Beeson snafu recalls the sorry misfire last year on the appointment of Tom Lyon of Utah to be Federal Mines Bureau chief, with its embarrassment to President Eisenhower. After the White House's hasty withdrawal of the Lyon nomination it would seem that a check on such details as pension plans and company obligations would be standing operating procedure on all Eisenhower appointments of this character.

Senator Knowland's Lament

A great deal that almost nobody can follow has been spoken and written and printed about the Bricker amendment. In all this welter of words, Senator Knowland, leader for the Republicans in the Senate, has said something that stands out for its clarity. Said the much-harassed would-be compromiser: "Everytime we plug the dike in one place something else opens up. I feel sympathy with the negotiators at Panmunjon. There are only two sides there but here we have the 96 Senators plus the executive departments." Had the Californian been a little less diplomatic he would have said: "95 Senators plus Senator Bricker."

To You: Joy and Congratulations

Prospects, public and private, should have improved sharply at high noon. The sun's arrival at the meridian marked the end of the Year of the Snake and the beginning of the Year of the Horse—exactly 2505 years after the birth of Confucius and 6651 years after Huang Ti, the great Yellow Emperor of All China.

Everybody knows that a year dominated by a reptile was bound to have its drawbacks, and any Chinese will tell you that the Year of the Horse is one of exceptional good fortune. The greeting proper to the day is: Joy and Congratulations! May you assemble great success! "Wealth" may be substituted for "success" by the more materialistic.

So, to kith and kin, to Mr. Dulles in Berlin, to President Eisenhower and his economic adviser, to the Premier of France, to Winston Churchill and Mr. Nehru, to Konrad Adenauer, not forgetting Mayor Tucker and Gov. Donnelly (who is bound to sign the earnings tax in this year of plush and splendor), to butcher, baker and office-boy, to lovely ladies—auburn, blonde and brunette—to everybody, we say:

Joy and congratulations! May you assemble great success—or, if you prefer, its equivalent in wealth!

Russia Takes Up Point IV

Probably the best testimony to the efficacy of Point IV is the report of Chester Bowles, former Ambassador to India, that Russia is adopting it. Moscow's representatives in Asia once were gruff men of few words. Now come fraternizing athletes and dancers, opera stars who sing the Indian anthem in Hindi, and technical men with practical help for improving agriculture and village life.

The idea was "made in America." But it can be made to work for anybody. Turned against us in Asia, it can be more dangerous than armies. Yet Washington is cutting down on this "do-good" program while Moscow is devoting more and more of Russia's rising income to its version of this practical development of good will.

Can the United States afford second place in this field?

Candidates, Not Actors

Republican leaders are showing more and more admiration for the political powers of television. National Chairman Leonard Hall urges the party to look for candidates with a talent for TV.

In a talk at Providence, R.I., Mr. Hall suggested that television "put across" Democrat Harrison A. Williams in the New Jersey congressional upset last November. Hall said, "Even Republican workers said that on the basis of television they would have voted for the Democrat."

We doubt, however, that people voted strictly "on the basis of television." Williams turned out to be a strong candidate in speeches, photographs and doorbell ringing, and above all in his platform. And the Republicans cannot blame TV for their loss. They had better blame themselves.

Certainly television can do a great deal to promote a candidate. It did something for Vice President Nixon and his dog Checkers. Actor-Producer Robert Montgomery has taken a White House office to help polish TV productions from there. But to expect television to make an appealing candidate of a poor one is a little like expecting a baseball team to improve with prettier uniforms.

Mr. Hall's undue concern for TV talents seems to put the camera before the man instead of vice versa. If a party selects a good candidate, especially a man who stands for something, he will have appeal on or off television.

Bond Issue Support in Clayton

If anybody had the impression that all of Clayton and all of University City were rising as one man to smite the proposed county bond issue for highway improvements, the mistake is now clear.

Mayor Roy A. Campbell of Clayton has announced his support of Proposition No. 1. Council Chairman Walter L. Metcalfe of University City has likewise announced his support.

These officials represent, undoubtedly, thousands of Clayton and University City residents who, though not as vocal as the opponents of Proposition No. 1, nevertheless have just as deep an interest in the welfare of their communities. And these people have decided, in the words of Mr. Metcalfe, that "the continuance of progress in St. Louis county depends upon the success of the bond issue."

It would be a sad day for St. Louis county if a local difference of opinion over one highway project defeated a critically needed bond issue to finance 16 highway projects. To forestall any chance of that happening, county residents who know how urgently needed these highway projects are should resolve to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote YES on the bond issue.

It takes two YES votes to outweigh every NO.

Former Chauffeur and Bodyguard

Senator Hennings of Missouri performed a public service in his cross-examination of Wesley A. Swift, the leading complainant against Chief Justice Warren at the Senate Judiciary Committee hearing.

Swift, like his colleague Gerald L. K. Smith, is one of the prices the people of the United States pay for their freedom. For Swift is one of the purveyors of hate and disruption described by Ralph Lord Roy in the latter's book, "Apostles of Discord," published by the Beacon Press. The Rev. Roy, who is a Methodist minister in Vermont, has this to say about the man Senator Hennings questioned for a half-hour:

Perhaps Gerald L. K. Smith's most influential supporter is "Anglo-Israelite" Wesley Swift, who operates a large hate enterprise costing over $40,000 annually in the Los Angeles area. Swift has directed activities of the Great Pyramid Club, the Anglo-Saxon Christian Congregation, and the Anglo-Saxon Bible Study Group; collectively, they are often considered to constitute the strongest racist element on the West Coast.

At one time Swift was Smith's chauffeur, bodyguard and research assistant. He has remained intensely loyal to his former boss, co-operating with his program and accompanying him on many of his trips. Swift is featured regularly at Christian Nationalist rallies, where he thunders his denunciation of Jews, liberalism and the United Nations; he attempts to imitate the dramatic drive of his master's voice.

Swift's flagrant racism follows the general Christian Nationalist line. He charges that the "merchants of Babylon" who "control" the clothing industry, the drug industry, the jewelry industry, the radio and motion picture industry—in fact almost everything—"hope to keep America from awareness of its unique destiny under God."

"Former chauffeur and bodyguard." Well, if we may presume to speak for those two honorable professions both are better off with hate-monger Wesley Swift off their rolls entirely. His attack on Earl Warren is a recommendation.

Farm Aid Is Not Cheap

Senator Symington has come to the defense of the farm price support program with some statistics which are apparently designed to show that the program doesn't really cost very much.

For the past 20 years, the Senator says, the cost of price supports on the six "basic" commodities—corn, cotton, wheat, peanuts, rice and tobacco—has averaged only about $1,000,000 a year, which he thinks is a cheap price to pay for the benefits accruing to the nation generally from the farm program.

The Senator may well be right on that, but his statistics are weak. To average out the cost of price supports over the past 20 years gives an altogether false impression. It is unfair to include the first few years of that period because farm prices were not effectively supported in those years. It is also unfair to include the years of the war and of abnormal postwar demand, because during that period prices would have stayed high without a Government program.

If the early '30s and most of the '40s are excluded from Senator Symington's statistics, however, that doesn't leave too much to go on. The truth is that the cost of price supports cannot accurately be estimated from the history of past abnormal years. Instead of trying to persuade itself that the cost is really low, Congress would be on sounder ground if it assumed from the start that price support when put to the test by a period of mounting surpluses is bound to cost a good deal.

But then any kind of aid to farmers, in such circumstances, might cost a good deal. Assuming that farm aid is going to be given, the real question is whether price supports are the best method of giving it.

The Health Division's Job

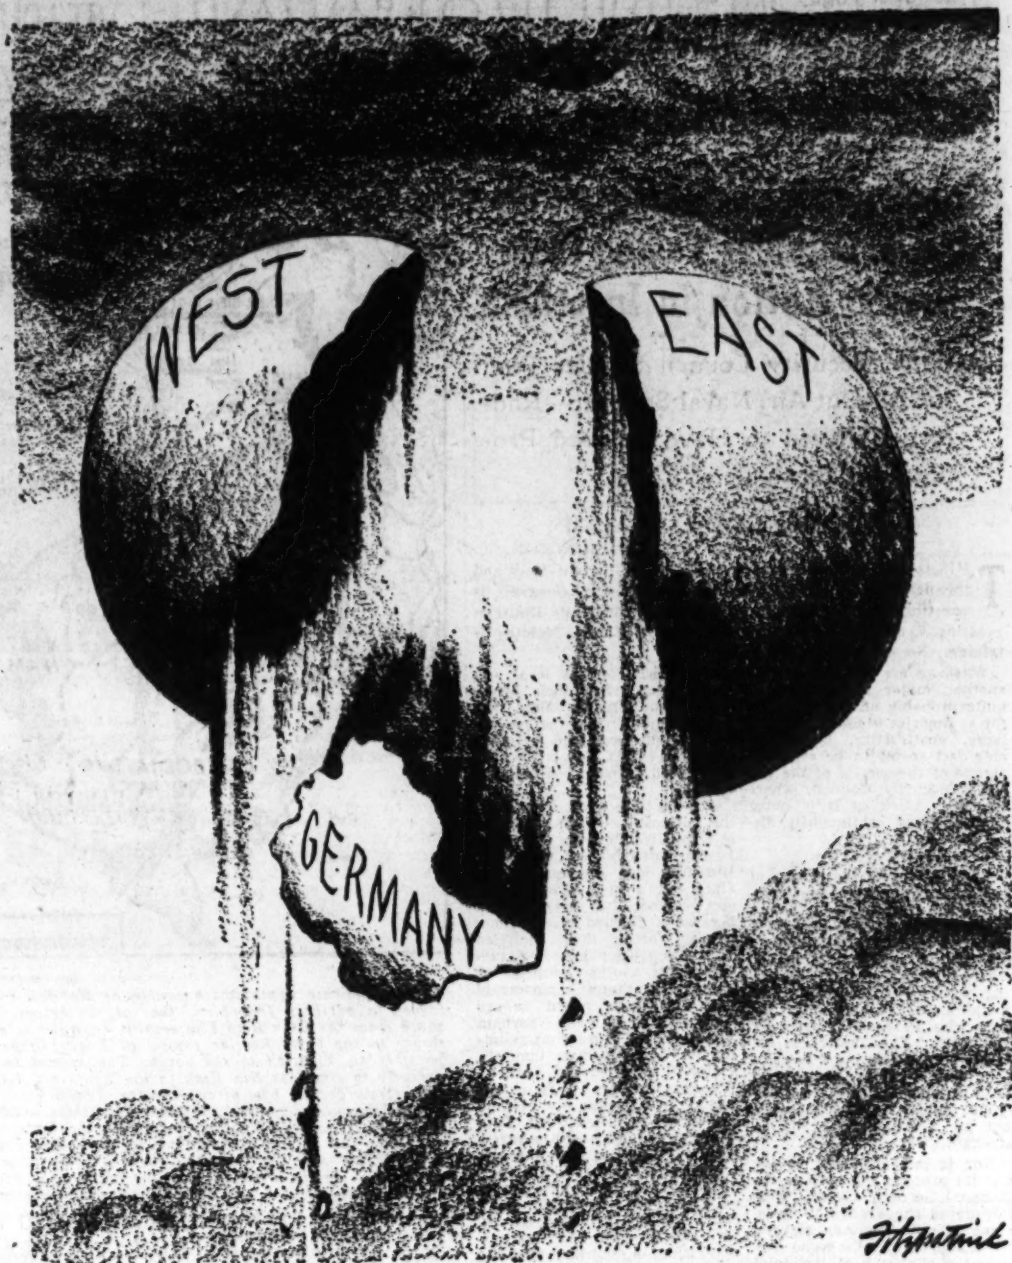

Should the St. Louis Health Division be responsible for control and eradication of rabies, a fatal disease that is transmitted to human beings through the bite of a rabid dog?

If the answer is Yes, then the next question is this: Should the Health Division be given the tools to meet this important responsibility, including the authority to control the stray dog population through control of the City Dog Pound?

Some members of the Board of Aldermen, notably Alderman George J. Grellner, just can't bring themselves to answer that one with a Yes. Instead, Mr. Grellner wants to permit the Humane Society of Missouri, a private agency, to take over the dog pound, a public responsibility.

Control of the Dog Pound obviously is as much the Health Division's job as control of rabies. Without control over the one it cannot do a proper job of the other. Which brings us down to the last question:

Where do the trustees of the Humane Society stand? Surely they are not behind Mr. Grellner's effort to handcuff the Health Division. If not, they ought to let him know.

MOLOTOV'S THREE-WORLD PLAN

The Mirror
Public Opinion

Rhode Island newspaper sets no excuse for Administration's refusal to break down figures on separations; President's pledge against secrecy and for efficient handling of loyalty problem cited; urges publicity to halt misuse of statistics.

An Editorial in the Providence Evening Bulletin

There is no shred of excuse for the Administration's persistent refusal to give out impersonal breakdown figures on the results of its employee security program.

From the President on down, no one has been reluctant to quote the total of security risks separated from the Federal Government since the Republicans took over. But, also from the President on down, not one of these same sources has been willing to say exactly how many of the total separated were dropped for Communist or espionage activities and how many for the numerous other reasons that are grounds for dismissal under the Eisenhower security formula.

Washington news-men, among them Journal-Bulletin correspondent Edward J. Milne, have been working for months to pry loose the breakdown figures, not out of idle curiosity or just to make news, but to put an end to what has looked more and more like a deliberate deception of the people.

After the White House announced last October that a total of 1456 employees had been removed from the Government as security risks, that figure was cited repeatedly as evidence of the success of the new security program. The impression was spread—perhaps innocently by Mr. Eisenhower, but very deliberately by others—that most of these separations involved spies, Communists or Communist sympathizers, Senator McCarthy has been particularly diligent in propagating that view.

Yet the overall figure covered dismissals for every one of the many reasons specified in the security order: overtalkativeness, alcoholism, sexual perversion and several others in addition to actual espionage or Communist party activity. Some commentators have also charged that the total was inflated with some cases that were in fact routine transfers or reductions in strength rather than security risks.

In the interests of accuracy and to prevent further misuse of the overall statistics by such professional exploiters as Senator McCarthy, the total figure needs to be broken down to indicate exactly what proportion of the dismissals represented the removal of spies or Communists.

But no one in the Administration would release such a breakdown. The President was asked for it, Attorney General Brownell was asked for it, the Civil Service Commission was asked for it. Yet it remains an airtight secret.

And now the overall figure has been upped to 2200 by a presidential reference in the State of the Union message. Mr. Eisenhower was careful to indicate that this total included separations for all reasons under the security policy, not just Communist activity or espionage. But he didn't offer any breakdown, and neither did Mr. Brownell when pressed for one at a press conference.

When he took over the presidency, Mr. Eisenhower said the question of subversion in government would be handled openly and efficiently by his Administration. Is this cover-up the frankness he promised?

When the Harry Dexter White case finally began to simmer down, Mr. Eisenhower said he hoped that subversion would soon disappear as a political issue. Is the secrecy on security dismissals, which gives the Red-hunters a free hand to magnify the Communists-in-government problem, consistent with that presidential stand?

We can see no justification for the Administration's attitude. If an erroneous impression has been fostered by the cover-up of the breakdown figures, let Mr. Brownell and the President admit it now and do what they can to remedy the damage, rather than compound it by maintaining the secrecy cloak any longer.

Between Book Ends

As They Do in Alabama

THE UNTIDY PILGRIM, by Eugene Walter.

(L. P. Lippincott Co., 253 pp., $3.50.)

It's not so much the story that Cousin Eugene tells but the way he tells it. Fact is, as he makes haste to say without compunction or much punctuation, he had for some time been fed up, bored slapdash to death, as he puts it, with the Sad Cypress school of Southern writing. He had made up his mind it was time for a change to the hog-and-hominy style. Then he would see what would happen. He meant he would write the way he had been taught to write, like other Alabamians talked. But when they wrote, it was something else.

This boy was Southern all right. About as far in that direction as he could get, which was the tiny town of Persepolis, five bus hours from Mobile and the Gulf Coast.

Mobile was the place to go if you ever expected to amount to anything, such as writing a hog-and-hominy book. So to Mobile went our hero and put up for a while with the Cousin Eugene. He had heard that in Mobile everybody was crazy because the Gulf Coast is the kingdom of money, musicians and Mobile is sweet lunacy's county seat. But it makes you different from what you've been and sure enough that was what it did for Cousin Gene.

As Cousin Gene went along he met up with a lot of people who talked his language, Southern talk! He put it down in his book just like they said it, the way he had been brought up to talk, not the way he had been taught to write, which was something else.

It got out somehow that he was writing a book and nothing would do but he should let his kinkos and friends have a look at some of the chapters. They didn't know what to make of it. There they were in the book talking like they did every day. And you could understand the words if you stopped a minute and said them out loud. What had happened to the boy? He certainly had changed. Yes, confessed Eugene: "I have changed but it's not some change you can point at with your finger and say look there, see-what-I-mean. It's more subtle than that."

It is subtle all right, so subtle that a person can read it and find himself forgetting that it's a book at all, nothing but Eugene himself sitting out there on the gallery telling a story in Southern speech, which, though it may on the printed page offend Southern eyes, is dear to music-loving ears everywhere.

Sure it's untidy, with its "yills" and everything, but who wants to read a tidy book when there's a chance to listen to Cousin Eugene, out there on the gallery, telling an untidy story about the folks he met when he went to Mobile. For a fact that is what he does, tells about the folks he met. There's a hint that tereckly he may put them together into a sure enough story. That will be something worth waiting for by all who love spoken speech.

Almanac Brought Up to Date

INFORMATION PLEASE ALMANAC: 1954 (Macmillan, 32 cloth, $1 paperback.)

The 1954 edition of this now standard yearbook is brought up to date in its general statistics, and offers a new economic survey that is useful as far as it goes. A "headline history of our times" is too sketchy to be of much value to anyone. Also next year an attempt should be made to improve the black-and-white maps, or omit them altogether. Apart from these questionable additions, the Almanac is the customary mine of statistical and factual information.

Senators Impaled Upon Their Own Votes

From The Milwaukee Journal

If ever politicians were caught looking foolish, it is those United States Senators, or most of them, who still favor the Bricker amendment to chop down the treaty power and the executive role in conduct of foreign affairs.

Secretary of State Dulles has impaled them with these devastating facts: While the Bricker amendment was pending all through 1953, the Senate ratified 23 treaties. If the amendment had been in force, 12 of them would have been unconstitutional! They all put limits on state legislation.

And on eight of the twelve the vote was 86 to 11! Among the 86 were Bricker himself and 34 others who had joined in the nominal sponsorship of his amendment resolution. Obviously, many of them must not have realized what the amendment would mean, or else had merely intended to stress the importance of the issue.

The extraordinary high attendance of all but nine Senators at the time of ratification bars any possible claim that it was all a mistake. So one is left to wonder what the shouting is about. How can one follow a Senator who votes for something which, if he had his way, would be unconstitutional?

If a treaty is good for the country today, how can all others like it necessarily be bad tomorrow and ever after?

MARQUIS CHILDS

Brownell 'Numbers Racket' Hurts G.O.P.

WASHINGTON. IF THE WHITE HOUSE INTENDS, as is now reported, to give out a breakdown explaining the reasons for the dismissal of 2200 government employees fired as "security risks" last year, it will end a situation that has become acutely embarrassing for the Administration.

A recent evening meeting of White House staffers is said to have been devoted almost entirely to studying how to get off the hook.

A little background shows why the Administration has good reason to be touchy on this point. Shortly after he became Attorney General, Herbert Brownell Jr. set out with the co-operation of other Cabinet officers to work out a new loyalty program. Under the Truman Administration, in Brownell's view, every employee who was dismissed came under the suspicion of disloyalty whether he was fired for drunkenness, incompetence or some other lesser charge.

Fake for Campaign.

When the new Brownell security program was announced, a lot was made of the claim that it would be fairer, since loyalty cases would be lumped with all others and the individual charged with being a dubious security risk would not be permanently stigmatized. To many this seemed a praiseworthy objective. It would put the whole business on a more sane basis.

But with the announcement that 2200 individuals were fired as security risks last year, the emptiness of that claim has made apparent. Republican spokesmen have widely advertised that the whole number were subversives—pro-Communist or Communists. This is in the face of every indication that the number even remotely suspected of disloyalty is probably well under 10 per cent.

This false figure is apparently to be used for political purposes in the coming campaign. The statements made by responsible officials are to permit to permit any other conclusion.

How Figures Were Used.

Bernard M. Shanley, special counsel to the President, said in a speech to the Advertising Club of New Jersey that "1456 (this was the figure used prior to the 2200 total) subversives had been kicked out of Government jobs since the President assumed office."

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield used the 2200 figure to talk about "security risks (who) are no longer using your tax money" and in a following sentence declared that "I know how I do not feel too amiable toward people who

VATICAN PAPER SAYS POPE IS IMPROVING

Also Denies Report Pontiff Was Examined by Late King George's Doctor.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, in an evident effort to allay growing concern over the health of Pope Pius XII, said today that "the state of the Supreme Pontiff, thanks to God, continues to improve."

The newspaper also described as "absolutely unfounded" reports in the Italian press that an English specialist who attended the late King George VI of Britain had been called for consultation.

This report had heightened worry in Vatican circles that the Pontiff may be suffering from cancer. King George died of a thrombosis in 1952 after he had been operated upon for cancer of the lung.

The Vatican newspaper, in its lengthiest comment on the Pope's condition since he was forced to cancel a general audience a week ago today, said during the past two days a part of the press had made "conjectures that were arbitrary and inconsistent with the news."

A Vatican press office bulletin yesterday said medical examinations with "happily negative results" had established that the disturbance from which the Pope suffers is of a gastric nature, provoked by nonadequate functioning of the neuro-digestive system.

The announcement appeared to be aimed at dispelling the fears of cancer. As described in that bulletin, the ailment is nervous indigestion. It comes from time to time disturbs the Pope's sleep. Four German nuns watch over him in his private Vatican palace apartment.

The Italian newspapers, Il Messaggero and Il Tempo, said the Pope had been placed on a liquid diet. They said he suffers stomach pains that require frequent applications of ice packs for relief.

The Pope, whose seventy-eighth birthday comes March 2, has been weakened by an intense work schedule that he has maintained almost continuously for 37 years.

MARIAN ANDERSON

RECITAL IS PLEASING

Performance Ends in Mood of Exaltation After Weak Beginning.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

At the conclusion of Marian Anderson's song recital given last night in Kiel Auditorium I could have gladly spent an additional two hours listening to the same program but in reverse order. For it was in the last two groups that her vocal resources became adequate to the demands of her opulent temperamental and her illuminating artistic perception.

Because of this recovery the recital ended, as have many in the past, in a mood of exaltation which encompassed everybody I am sure. But it was still regrettable that the nobly conceived performances of Bach and Schubert should have been plagued by uncertain pitch, a persistent tremolo, and a vaguely projected line.

That Miss Anderson's emotions were deeply involved was quite evident and at critical points in "Der Wanderer" and "Nacht und Traum" the expansive and elegantly turned phraseology made one aware of the controlling esthetic impulse. Too much was left, however, to the constructive imagination of the listener.

Ironically enough it was in Tchaikovsky's "None But the Lonely Heart" that the wraps came off, the line became clearly defined, the vocal blemishes seemed negligible, and the ordinarily blatant pathos of this song was turned into the real thing. Miss Anderson worked a similar miracle with Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me" and Britten's setting of "Sally Gardens" was a nostalgic recapture of a fragrant past.

As is her custom Miss Anderson concluded with a group of Negro spirituals. One of these, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" was made into a transcendent religious poem of extraordinary evocative power. And finally Miss Anderson sang the Schubert "Ave Maria."

Franz Rupp, played the piano accompaniments and as usual made his instrument a true partner of the soloist.

Trumpet Virtuoso Rafael Mendez Makes Hit.

Rafael Mendez, trumpet virtuoso, made a big hit as guest soloist last night at a concert by the Washington University band. Sufficient word had got around about Mendez's appearance that Graham Chapel was almost filled. In the audience were professional trumpet players, trumpet teachers, trumpet students, eager to hear this 44-year-old fellow who has been playing trumpet since he was a small boy in his native Mexico.

Mendez disappointed none of those familiar with his brilliant technique and beautiful tone through phonograph records, movie and television appearances. The thirty-second and sixty-fourth notes flowed like spring water from his horn as he played "Mexican Hat Dance," "Czardas," "Virgin of Macarena" and "Tico-Tico." For his final encore the soloist performed some breath-taking "Carmen de Venice" variations—with one finger.

The soloist's stage mannerisms were of the kind he uses for stage show and night club appearances, but no one minded. His dazzling trumpeting was what counted. Several times lagging accompaniment by the

MORGANFORD CHURCH TO BE REPLACED AFTER RAZING

The Morganford Church of Christ, nineteenth century frame structure on the northwest corner of Morganford road and Tholozan avenue, is being razed and will be replaced by a new church building.

Nearly 100 years old, the structure was occupied by the Holy Innocent's Episcopal Church in 1871 after serving as a union church for Methodists, Presbyterians and other denominations for 15 years. In 1939, Holy Innocent's merged with two other parishes to become St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 4712 Clifton avenue.

The Rev. Hubert Lindsay, pastor of Morganford Church of Christ, said the new church, designed for a growing congregation, will be built chiefly by members who will donate their labor. The old church has been covered with white shingles in recent years, but formerly was a colonial structure with multi-paned windows and green shutters.

GILBERT MURPHY FUNERAL TOMORROW AT FRESNO, CALIF.

Funeral services for Gilbert Murphy, president of Murphy Auto Parts in Kirkwood, will be tomorrow at Fresno, Calif., with burial there.

Mr. Murphy, 54 years old, died of a heart attack when vacationing at Redondo Beach, Calif. He was a member of the Greater St. Louis Automotive Parts Association and the Greater St. Louis Horseless Carriage Club. Mr. Murphy lived at 13 North Robyn road, Sappington. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Queen Murphy, and a sister, Mrs. Blanche Shelnett of Redondo Beach.

EISENHOWER JOINS SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower has reversed his position on belonging to no outside organizations, and again is an active member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The president general of the S.A.R., Arthur A. de la Housaye, said yesterday Eisenhower had assured him his resignation was submitted in error and that he wanted to be reinstated.

The S.A.R.'s answer: It marked Eisenhower's resignation "void" so that "his membership continued uninterrupted."

There had been a report that Eisenhower had quit the S.A.R., and this was confirmed at the White House on Dec. 21. Murray Snyder, assistant presidential press secretary, said Eisenhower decided to drop out of all organizations except those in which he could be active, such as the Red Cross. So, Snyder said, Eisenhower resigned from several hundred organizations.

FCC AGREES TO CONSIDER APPLICATION FOR CHANNEL 11

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington agreed yesterday to consider the application of Broadcast House Inc. for VHF television channel 11 in St. Louis.

Earlier the commission had declined to accept the application because the company operates station KSTM-TV on UHF channel 36 in St. Louis. Commission rules limit a licensee to one station in a broadcast area.

Broadcast House offered to surrender Channel 36 if granted 11. As a result of a recent order by the United States Court of Appeals, the commission announced it would decide the merits of the application as part of its final decision following public hearings for four other applicants for Channel 11.

JUDGE GETS NOMINATIONS FOR B'NAI B'RITH AWARD

Nominations for the annual B'Nai B'Rith Award are being received by Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson, chairman of the committee of selection, it was announced yesterday.

The award is presented annually by the St. Louis B'Nai B'Rith Council for the "outstanding contribution made in the St. Louis area during the past year toward the promotion of inter-group understanding."

Both individuals and organizations are eligible, but persons engaged professionally in inter-group work may not receive the award. Nominations, in writing, must be made on or before next Monday to Judge Aronson, Civil Courts Building, St. Louis 1, Mo.

MERCURY UP TO 86 IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (AP)—The mercury pushed to 86 degrees and another record yesterday, topping a mark of 81 degrees set a year ago. Monday's 86-degree temperature broke the Feb. 1 record by one degree. The hottest February day occurred in 1921, when it was 92 on Feb. 25.

WOODSON WOODS JR. DIES IN NAPLES, FLA.

Former Bag Company Manager Here Was on Vacation With Family.

Woodson K. Woods Jr., former St. Louis branch manager for Chase Bag Co., died today following a heart attack at Naples, Fla., where he was on vacation with his family.

Mr. Woods was 49 years old and lived at 2105 South Warsaw road. Ladue. His father, a director and executive vice president of Ralston Purina Co., died in 1950, leaving an estate valued at more than $4,000,000, the bulk of which went to his sons, Woodson Jr. and James H. Woods.

Mr. Woodson Woods Jr. was with Ralston Purina Co. for 14 years and held the position as manager of the private label division when he left there in 1941. He was St. Louis manager for Chase Bag Co. from 1946 to June 1951, when he retired because of ill health.

Surviving, besides his brother, are his wife, the former Miss Dorothy Ladd, and two sons, Richard Randolph Woods and Woodson K. Woods III, who is in the Navy.

The body will be returned here for burial. Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending arrival of Woodson K. Woods III, who is stationed in Honolulu.

5 BINGHAM PAINTINGS HUNG IN COURTHOUSE TO AID VOTE

Art came to the aid of politics yesterday when five paintings of the nineteenth century Missouri artist, George Caleb Bingham, were hung in the council chambers of the Clayton courthouse in an avowed attempt to stimulate voting in the Feb. 9 bond issue election.

In addition to the Bingham paintings of rural electioneering and voting scenes of a hundred years ago, there was an original cartoon by Daniel Fitzpatrick, editorial cartoonist of the Post-Dispatch calling attention to the bright future if the $44,732,000 bond issue is passed next Tuesday.

Three of the Bingham paintings were lent by Boatmen's National Bank, another by the City Art Museum, while a Bingham print, "Canvassing for a Vote," was lent by its owner, Stratford Lee Morton, St. Louis insurance man. The exhibit was arranged by Councilman James A. Singer.

PICASSO MURAL SKETCHES TO FORM CAMPUS EXHIBIT

Fifty of Pablo Picasso's sketches for "Guernica," the Spanish artist's famous mural painting on Gen. Francisco Franco's destruction of a Basque town by bombing in 1937, will be placed on public exhibition Monday at Givens Hall library on the Washington University campus.

The display, circulated by the Museum of Modern Art, New York, includes drawings, some in color, made in preparation for a weeping woman, and a series of photographs illustrating how the work of art changed in conception during its execution.

Hours of the library are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and 9 a.m. to 12 noon Saturdays. The show will last through the month.

G.O.P. Politics Keep Bricker Plan Alive

WASHINGTON. THE BRICKER AMENDMENT is no longer the real trouble. The real trouble is the politics involved in it. The original constitutional amendment sponsored by Senator John W. Bricker (Rep.), which would restrict the President's and the Senate's treaty-making power, is no longer the issue. That proposal is dead as it was framed.

Then you might properly ask, why all the dog-trotting up and down Pennsylvania Avenue between the Capitol and the White House by Senator Knowland (Calif.) Republican leader, and his associated leaders about which you read in your newspapers—that is, if you have bothered to read?

That, to be blunt and concise, is to try to work out a compromise to save the political faces of a number of Senators who signed the Ohio Senator's proposal some months ago.

They include both Republicans and Democrats, but more of the former, in fact nearly all of them. Some of the Senators are doubly embarrassed because they are up for re-election this year.

Well-Financed Minority. In fact, Senator Bricker has threatened that he would keep the issue alive. Whether bluffing or not, he convinced Senator Knowland. Why can Senator Bricker get away with his threats?

The simple answer is the power in this country of a determined, well-organized, well-financed minority with which the Administration is dealing here.

Such can scare the daylight out of politicians in an election year. It is an isolationist minority of which Senator Bricker is the champion. It has found fertile field for its crusade in the frustrations of the cold war, with the continued sacrifices required. A target is offered in the United Nations in which we have accepted responsibilities to help and work with other nations.

Campaign Money Involved.

The Bricker amendment represents a form of international "McCarthyism" that can be most dangerous, as the President knows.

The campaign is so effective within the Republican party because among its backers are affluent Republicans who are influential with state Republican organizations. They can turn campaign contributions on and off.

Temporarily Senator Bricker has superseded Senator Joe McCarthy as a trouble-maker for the President and his Senate leadership. He has tied up the Senate for days and kept the White House and the President on the alert at all hours.

And on a trumped-up issue, which the party leaders should never have let get so out of hand.

Why Not a Vote?

Why, then, does the President permit this trafficking about a compromise to go on? Why does he continue to see emissaries from the Senate who are trying to put together a combination of words which, frankly, they don't intend shall mean much of anything?

Why doesn't the President insist that the Bricker amendment go to a vote in the Senate? It would fail. That is certain. It

Turn-To Gains 3 1-2 Length Victory in Three-Year-Old Debut

Hoop Ring Is Second In Sprint

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3 (UP)—Harry F. Guggenheim, who won last year's Kentucky Derby with an outsider named Dark Star, may have this year's derby winner in Turn-To, the fleet colt voted "most likely to succeed" in 1954.

Turn-To, a son of Royal Charger, carried the colors of Cain Hoyle Stable to victory in the world's richest race last year—the Garden State Stakes, Oct. 31. Since then the colt has been rested, but yesterday made his 1954 debut as a three-year-old and gave a fine crowd at Hialeah Park little to argue about while romping to a three and one-half length victory in the Springtime Purse.

Henry Moreno flashed the colt over six furlongs in 1:10 before easing him through the stretch for a total clocking of 1:23 1/2 for seven furlongs. Turn-To picked up only a small purse but Guggenheim was looking beyond the day's small reward for the colt's initial start of the year to the three-year-old classics of the new season—the Flamingo here and the Derby in May.

After the brisk run, trainer Eddie Hayward said, "he did everything I expected," and Moreno commented, "It was easy, everything we did was easy, and there never was any doubt."

While the victory delighted his owner, trainer and jockey, it left the other owners of three-year-olds convinced that Turn-To is the horse to beat in the Flamingo and Derby.

Turn-To earned a purse of $151,282 in the Garden State Stakes but only picked up $29,250 for his afternoon's "workout" yesterday. He has earned $180,732 thus far in his young career.

The two turf officials who picked him to "succeed," John B. Campbell and Charles J. McLennan, were among those who saw Turn-To make his sophomore debut in startling fashion.

Hoop Ring finished in the winner's wake and was three lengths ahead of Jimmy Mann for the place.

Turn-To paid $3.00, $2.60 and $2.20 under top weight of 122 pounds, while Hoop Ring (110) returned $6.10 and $3.40. Jimmy Mann (110) paid $3.40.

Gonzales Triumphs

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—Pancho Gonzales last night chalked up his tenth victory over Pancho Segura on their current tour with Jack Kramer's pro tennis troupe, 10-8. In the semifinals, Gonzales beat Don Budge 8-4 and Segura beat Frank Sedgman 8-6. Sedgman and Budge defeated Gonzales and Segura 6-5 in the doubles.

Bears, Hornets Win

HERSHEY, Pa., Feb. 3 (UP)—The Hershey Bears can thank their veteran line of Dunc Fisher, George Sullivan and Lorne Ferguson today for the team's solid grip on third place in the American Hockey League. The trio accounted for nine points among them as the Bears slipped by the Syracuse Warriors, 6-5, last night in overtime. In the only other action, the Pittsburgh Hornets edged the Cleveland Barons, 5-4.

Brennan Knows Aids He Wants; McArdle to Go

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 3 (UP)—Notre Dame's new football coach, young Terry Brennan, said today he knows whom he wants as assistant coaches, but he doesn't know whether all of them can be freed from business commitments.

"It will take a few days to find out," he said. "But I have a man in mind for each job, and I expect to announce all of them before next week."

It was likely that Max Burnell, who coached St. George high school to the Chicago city championship last season, would join the Irish as backfield coach and Brennan's chief assistant.

Burnell was a close associate of Brennan's when the new Irish coach handled the Mount Carmel high school team. He has only a verbal contract with St. George and could join Notre Dame without delay.

Three May Stay.

Two of the present assistants, Bill Earley and Johnny Druze, were expected to remain, while a third of the six coaches who aided Frank Leahy, Wally Ziembra, was rated another possibility.

Brennan planned to have four varsity assistants, a "B" team coach and a freshman coach. Burnell and Druze appeared certain to work with the varsity and Earley could work in any of the jobs. Ziembra was rated a possibility to coach the "B" team.

Joe McArdle, line coach under Leahy, said definitely that he was leaving.

"I have three or four others," he said, "and I'm going to take one of them."

It was regarded as definite that neither of the other Leahy assistants, Bob McBride and Johnny Lujack, would remain.

Also mentioned as possibilities to join the coaching staff to handle the line were such Irish stars of the Brennan playing era as Jimmy Wendell, Bill Fischer and Jim Martin. All played two or more line positions during their college careers.

Brennan made his first public appearance as the Irish coach yesterday and was greeted by a spontaneous demonstration of nearly 1000 students who cheered both the new and old regimes.

Leahy, who resigned Sunday after 11 years in which his teams won four national titles, spoke with tears in his eyes.

He said that under Brennan the Irish "coaching reins will be in strong, capable powerful hands."

"Terry, if you ever think that I can help you in any way, simply give me a phone call," Brennan told the students that the departure of Leahy left a "great void," and that he would "do all I can to take up a little slack."

"I need your support," he said, "and I know you'll give it to me have in the past."

Australia Will Send Seven Net Stars to U.S.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 3 (AP)—The challenge round of the 1954 Davis Cup competition will be held at Sydney instead of Melbourne, it was decided today at the annual meeting of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association.

The association decided to send a team of seven players overseas to compete in the United States, France, England and several other European countries.

The players selected were Lewis Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Mervyn Rose, Rex Hartwig, Ron Emerson, Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper.

The team will leave Australia on May 8 by plane and return after competing in the Pacific Southwest Tournament in the U.S. Sept. 18-19 after the U.S. Nationals at Forest Hills, Aug. 28-Sept. 6.

Other U.S. tournaments in which the Aussies will compete: Aug.

Making Friends is Our Business

Recently we announced that Anheuser-Busch had set a new world record in 1953...with sales of Budweiser and Michelob substantially greater than the sales ever made in any year...by any other brewer... anywhere in the world.

We've thought a lot about that record. We're proud of it, of course. But, even more than the sales leadership itself, we value what it means.

It means we can have even stronger faith in producing Budweiser and Michelob by the costliest brewing process on Earth. It means that America's good taste continues to demand the very highest quality. It means this record belongs to you as much as it does to us.

And it belongs to the retailers who serve you. Throughout our more than 100-year history, we have valued the friendship of these businessmen who are partners on the Budweiser team. Now, more than ever, we appreciate their confidence.

Although sales leadership is nothing new to Anheuser-Busch, we promise to continue to merit your good will on the basis of the unmatched quality of Budweiser and Michelob, and by always remembering that "MAKING FRIENDS IS OUR BUSINESS".

Carrier Share Index Advances 1.1 Points — Volume Rises as Prices Improve.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—The stock market advanced today with railroads in the lead, and just before the close there was brisk buying of stocks that kicked prices further ahead.

For all practical purposes there was a two-point ceiling on gains. Losing issues were down fractions for the most part with a few slipping to around a point.

The market was lower in the beginning, and then prices began to gain. Trading was quiet during the declining periods, and the pace immediately quickened as prices improved.

Associated Press average of 65 stocks rose .7 of a point to 113.7. Rail index gained 1.1 points, industrial .6 of a point and utility .2.

(Dow-Jones industrials closed 1.15 points higher, the rail 1.14 and the utilities up .03, a net 1954-53 high.)

Trading spread over 115 issues, 15 more than yesterday, and included 586 gainers, 273 losers and 300 unchanged. There were 72 new 1953-54 highs and one new low.

Volume came to an aggregate 1,690,000 shares. That compares with 1,420,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was lower.

Many individual issues were strong. The American Woolen common and preferred were sharply higher when a restraining order was dissolved to permit the company to proceed to allow stockholders to vote on a proposal to sell off some of its facilities and call in the preferred issues.

Rohm & Haas, which was up 4 1/2 Monday and remained untraded yesterday, gained 11 points at 170 today.

American Car & Foundry common and preferred were strong with the common up around a point and the preferred up between 4 and 5 points.

Newport News Shipbuilding, up 3 1/2 yesterday on news of an award to build a supercarrier for the Navy, gained around a point today.

Stocks advancing included Northern Pacific, New York Central, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Sinclair Oil, Consolidated Edison, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, International Paper, U.S. Steel, Goodrich, and Douglas Aircraft.

TELLS OF GIVING WIFE'S PAY BACK TO LAWMAKER

Witness Explains Agreement With Congressmen Charged With Falsifying Payroll.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Irving W. Swanson testified today that he returned to Representative Ernest K. Bramblett (Rep.), California, all the salary paid to Swanson's wife during 16 months she was carried on Bramblett's payroll as a clerk.

Swanson is formerly a Republican employee of the House and is now a Senate employee. Bramblett is on trial in United States district court on charges of falsifying his payroll in order to get "kickbacks" from Mrs. Margaret W. Swanson and Mrs. Olga Hardaway.

Swanson said all of his wife's salary went back to Bramblett except enough to pay his increased tax bill as the result of her salary.

The witness related that Mrs. Swanson was put on the payroll as a result of a conversation in August 1949.

He said he and Bramblett got to discussing politics, including the fact that a number of members of the House had their wives on their payroll as their secretaries.

Mrs. Swanson testified later that she was put on Bramblett's payroll "to remove the sting, the criticism he had in his district" for having his wife on the payroll.

Mrs. Swanson said she never had done any work for Bramblett.

Bramblett described his wife as a "valuable assistant" to him. Swanson said he mentioned that Bramblett represented a politically close district, and Bramblett said some people were making the charge of nepotism against him because of his wife's payroll status.

Swanson went on to say that Bramblett said he had thought of putting his sister on the payroll and having her turn the money back to Mrs. Bramblett, while this was not illegal in any sense, the political charge of nepotism would not be changed by such a shift.

One of them (Swanson) said he couldn't remember which finally suggested that Mrs. Swanson be put on the payroll with Mrs. Bramblett continuing to serve as Bramblett's secretary.

After talking with his wife, Swanson continued, he told Bramblett that Mrs. Swanson would let her name go on the Bramblett payroll in place of Mrs. Bramblett's and that "we would turn the full amount of Mrs. Swanson's salary back to him."

Swanson related that his wife signed forms at their Arlington (Va.) bank whereby her salary checks would be mailed directly to the bank for deposit. Most of the time, Swanson said, he drew out enough cash to cover the amount of Mrs. Swanson's check and took it to Bramblett.

Swanson said he did not learn until late 1952 that Bramblett had put his own wife back on his payroll in 1950.

Swanson related that in one instance Bramblett asked him for the amount of three months checks before they arrived. He said Bramblett was about to have for California, but that he told him he didn't have the money before the checks arrived. Finally, Swanson said, Bramblett suggested Swanson give him a post-dated check. Swanson said he made out a check for $1440 for payments

STUDIO BURGLAR CAUGHT AFTER TIP BY LUCILLE BALL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3 (AP)—Police report that a bit of detective work by Lucille Ball led to the arrest of a man who has admitted he made about $16,000 a year by posing as a writer and looting studio dressing rooms.

Hollywood detectives Claire Riding and Byron Diller said Kenneth Darling, 31 years old, a handsome and well-dressed convict, was arrested yesterday and booked on suspicion of burglary when he was found snooping in a dressing room at the General Service Studios.

The police said Darling admitted that he had been operating in film and television studios for the last four years, roaming around the lots by posing as a writer and always carrying a script under his arm.

The detectives said the lead in the case was supplied by Miss Ball. She said she encountered a stranger emerging from the dressing room of her husband, Desi Arnaz. Miss Ball gave police such a good description of the man that they found Darling's record in police files and circulated his photograph to all studios.

2 U.S. REPORTERS ARE XPELLED BY GUATEMALA

New York Times, NBC Writers Ousted. Reds Attack Nation's Independent Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3 (AP)—Guatemala's leftist government appeared today to have launched a major crackdown on the press. It expelled two United States correspondents, and Communist supporters of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman bitterly attacked the nation's independent press.

The ousted newsmen were Sidney Gruson, New York Times correspondent for Mexico and Central America, and Marshall F. Bannell of the National Broadcasting Co. Both were accused of trying to discredit the Guatemalan government.

Security police hustled both to the airport in Guatemala City yesterday.

In announcing their ouster, the Guatemalan Foreign Office charged "certain organs of information in the United States" were campaigning in "an increasing crescendo and malicious form against Guatemala for the purpose of attacking the good relations between the two countries."

U.S. Accused of Plot. Guatemala charged last week that its Central American neighbors, "with the connivance of the United States," had been plotting to wreck Arbenz's government. The President is not himself considered a Communist but his government has received strong support from the nation's Reds and has gone out of its way to please them.

The United States State Department rejected the accusation as "false and ridiculous," a statement echoed by the other governments accused.

Gruson on his arrival here said Guatemala had "complete freedom of the press up to now... but I think the situation must now be viewed in the light of these latest developments."

He said Guatemala's strong Communist faction had been making "extremely vicious" attacks in the last few days on the independent press, which he said had been critical of the Communists at times.

Gruson indicated he thought press conditions in Guatemala would worsen.

"Defamed This Republic." The Guatemalan Foreign Office statement said Gruson "systematically defamed and injured this republic and its government through the press, being one of the most active agents of the campaign to bring them into disrepute."

The government objected particularly to an article in which Gruson wrote last November, "Arbenz 'has become a prisoner of the embrace he so long ago gave the Communists.'"

Bannell, who went to El Salvador, told NBC by telephone from there that the network was charged with trying to discredit Guatemala by "inspiring and inciting a 'bullfight' riot last October."

From his office here, Miguel Lanz Duret, president of the Inter-American Press Association, telegraphed Guatemalan Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello protesting against the expulsions. He termed the action an attack on the freedom of the press.

Priest Ordered to Leave. Guatemalan authorities today refused to renew the residence permit of a New York Franciscan missionary, the Rev. Sebastian Buccellato, on the charge he was mixing in politics here. He ordered him to leave the country at once.

Father Buccellato, who headed a Roman Catholic parish in Asuncion Mita, southern Guatemala, denied the charges. He said they came as the result of Communist agitation in the area, principally against the church.

The priest told newsmen he had been taken earlier to the border of neighboring El Salvador by Guatemalan police, who seized his flock and other personal effects. El Salvador authorities turned him back, he said, and he came to the capital, where he was told his residence permit ended this noon. The missionary said he will return to New York City.

Reds Reported Moving Into Costa Rica. CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Feb. 3 (AP)—The official Dominican military intelligence service said yesterday a Caribbean Communist organization is moving at least part of its center of operations from Mexico and Guatemala to Costa Rica.

The intelligence service in a communique said that in the last six weeks 30 Communist agents from Russia, Romania, Hungary and other European countries, have been spotted in Panama en route to San Jose, Costa Rica.

Philip E. Muehlheausler, Republican nominee for State Senate, tonight announced last night a 15-point platform in connection with his candidacy in next Tuesday's special election. He spoke at a meeting of the Seventeenth Ward Republican Club at 220 North Boyle avenue.

He declared he would support the metropolitan sewer district plan and establishment of the unit control administrative system in St. Louis public schools.

The candidates also called for increased aid to mental hospitals, elimination of segregation in schools of higher education, a May state primary and use of blanket primary ballots. He said he favored the Citizens Committee report on public schools, which was bottled up in the Senate last session, and the juvenile code revision recommended by the White House conference and sponsored by the Missouri Bar.

BANK PRESIDENT TACKLES HOLDUP MAN, SAVES $20,000

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—A man identified as William E. Davidson of Clarkburg, W. Va., entered the Riverside Bank yesterday afternoon and asked to see Tully F. Dunlap, the bank's president. Inside Dunlap's office the man pulled back his coat and displayed a pistol stuck in his belt.

"I want $50,000," the man said. "Put it in a bag for me. I have your wife and children in custody, so don't be too long." Dunlap argued the man into cutting the amount to $20,000, called for the money from a cashier, handed the cash in a money bag to Davidson, and accompanied him to the front door. Dunlap, 27 years old, brought the man down with a flying tackle and got a strangle hold on his throat.

A bank guard rushed to Dunlap's aid.

Dunlap said the pistol in Davidson's belt was a toy and that he had made no move to seize Mrs. Dunlap and the children.

POLICE JUDGE URGES HIGHER TRAFFIC FINES IN CLAYTON

Present traffic fines in Clayton are too small to be deterrents to traffic violators, Police Judge Martin J. Rasmussen said last night in recommending that provision be made for stiffer penalties.

He recommended increased fines in 15 of 45 types of offenses handled by the traffic violations bureau on the first offense from the present average of $1 up to a maximum of $4.

Rasmussen recommended that on the second offense increases should be made in 30 of the 45 types of offenses from the present level of $1 and $2 up to $3 and $5.

Homemade Traffic Jam. AUSTIN, Minn. (UP)—The Burtons, Chandlers have discovered the disadvantage of being a two-car family with a one-car driveway. Mr. and Mrs. Chandler collided as they drove their automobiles out of the driveway. Damage—$65.

Flashes of Life

Enlightened Criticism. DETROIT (AP)—Municipal bus drivers want parking facilities enlarged around terminals. They want to drive to work because they say the public transportation system is too slow.

With Coffee? GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)—Todd Shipyard manager Lester E. Briese bet Mayor Herbert V. Carrington a steak dinner and a $6,000,000 bond issue to build a bridge would not pass. Each time the two men met they raised the bet. The bond issue passed. Cartwright got his steaks—one whole cow.

DENIES CHANGE FOUND NO PROOF IN EISENHOWER OF SHAKE-DOWN, HEALTH PROGRAM STATE DEPT. SAYS

Mrs. Hobby Says Experts Are Preparing Bill for Government Re-insurance.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — Executives of private insurance companies met yesterday with Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, to discuss President Eisenhower's proposal for federal health re-insurance.

Mrs. Hobby denied reports that she had asked the insurance men to work out a substitute for the Eisenhower re-insurance proposal. She said the group was assisting the department in preparing an Administration re-insurance bill.

"The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is working out a number of specific details connected with the President's proposal for a limited re-insurance system," she declared. Mrs. Hobby refused to give details of the meeting, but a spokesman for the department said the insurance executives were among "a large number of outside persons called in to assist and advise in preparing a re-insurance bill."

A news dispatch from New York said yesterday Mrs. Hobby had decided the Eisenhower proposal, outlined in a special health message to Congress, was "most impractical" and had asked the insurance men to find an acceptable substitute.

"There is absolutely no truth to any report that the re-insurance proposal is being dropped by the Administration," Mrs. Hobby declared. She declined to comment on whether the insurance men were being asked to review the plan in such a way as to leave the principle of re-insurance intact while changing many specific details.

Under the Eisenhower plan, the Government would make $25,000,000 available initially to re-insure private health insurance plans, enabling them to offer broader coverage.

Customarily, general proposals outlined in presidential messages are worked out in detail by staff members of individual departments, who may call in outside help in preparing specific Administration bills.

This procedure is being followed by the Health, Education and Welfare Department in preparing a bill to implement the Eisenhower re-insurance proposal, a spokesman for the department said.

It Replies to McCarthy Charges of $150,000 Bribe Solicitation by Officials.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The State Department announced yesterday that a three-month investigation had failed to support a charge by Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) that State Department personnel shook down a foreign government for $150,000.

The department said its investigative authority did not extend far enough to determine "whether or not a bribe was solicited by other American citizens."

McCarthy made the charge last July 13, saying he had evidence that employees "in the old Acheson State Department" got the money from a friendly foreign government in return for a legal service which he said it was entitled to receive "without paying any bribes."

Some six weeks later, however, he told reporters that "all evidence indicates there was a solicitation by State Department officials," but no certainty that any money actually changed hands.

Officials never named. At no time has McCarthy named either the foreign government nor any State Department officials he said were involved.

His first reference to his information to the Justice Department, which said the elapse of time would prevent its taking any action even if the charges were true. Then he pressed for a State Department investigation.

That department's official announcement came only a few hours after the Senate had voted to give McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee $214,443 for its work during another year.

Senator Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, asked McCarthy yesterday whether the Justice and State Departments had refuted accusations McCarthy first made last July that someone in the State Department during Acheson's tenure had tried to "shake down" a friendly foreign government for $150,000.

"The original statement is completely correct," McCarthy replied.

He let that comment stand after the department made its formal statement. McCarthy made his charge after receiving a tip relayed to him by the San Diego (Calif.) Union and after questioning persons whom he has not named.

Official Announcement. The announcement by the State Department said an evaluation of its investigation indicated:

"1. There is no information indicating representatives of a friendly foreign power sought recognition by offering a bribe, or in any way conducted themselves in an unethical or illegal manner."

"2. There is no information indicating that any employee of the State Department either accepted a bribe or solicited a bribe, or was in any way engaged in wrongful, illegal or unethical conduct in connection with this matter."

"3. The department's inquiry into the Senate committee's report was confined to the issues of alleged misconduct on the part of a friendly foreign power, or on the part of employees of the department. These issues are resolved by the above statements (1 and 2)."

DUCHESS IS ROBBED OF FURS, JEWELRY VALUED AT $28,000

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Burglars robbed the Duchess of Argyll of furs and jewelry worth more than £10,000 ($28,000) last night while she entertained a dinner party two floors below. Police said the thieves apparently climbed a drainpipe to a third-floor bedroom in the Argyll residence in fashionable Mayfair. It was the second costly burglary for the Duke and Duchess in six months. Last August a garage thief raided their Scottish home, Inverary Castle, and made off with gold plate and heirlooms worth thousands of pounds.

INFANTRY DIVISION ON MOVE DIVOACKS AT ST. CHARLES

The first contingent of officers and men of the Thirty-first Infantry Division which is moving from Camp Atterbury, Ind., to Camp Carson, Colo. The group included 388 soldiers and 168 vehicles.

The soldiers slept in 200 pup tents last night at Blanchette Park, St. Charles. The movement of the division will continue to use Blanchette Park as a "way station," through Feb. 17.

IMPORTER ANALYZES REPORT ON TRADE

Little More Than Statement of Conflicting Views, Morris S. Rosenthal Says.

Parts of the Randall Commission's report on foreign economic policy are "a pious expression of

ris S. Rosenthal of New York, an advocate of liberalized tariff laws, said here yesterday.

Rosenthal, a past president of the National Council of American Importers, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis at Hotel Statler.

He said the report, delivered last month as a blueprint for the Eisenhower Administration, could hardly have turned out to be more than a statement of conflicting views because com-

before their appointment, to hold irreconcilable opinions on trade.

"What is important," Rosenthal declared, "is a sober analysis of these viewpoints in order than we can reach a conclusion."
While Rosenthal himself strongly favored lowering tariffs as the best course of action for the nation, he urged that if the majority of Americans feel otherwise, a clear and definite trade policy expressing that attitude should be hammered out.

"We cannot continue," he told an audience of about 50 persons, "to give lip-service to increased trade and then do nothing to

Rosenthal gave the Randall Commission credit for recommending extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Law for three years, but said a longer period, with elimination of the "peril point" and "escape"
clauses, would have been better.
It is not wise, Rosenthal said, for Congress to set up limits so restrictive that administration of a law becomes difficult, if not impossible. He said rules on

17 FIRMS TO PARTICIPATE IN SALES AWARD PROGRAM

Seventeen St. Louis area firms have registered as participants in the Distinguished Salesman's Award Program, sponsored by the Sales Managers Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis. It was announced today.

Awards will be given to the winner from each firm, selected by the firm itself. In the case of companies with several divisions which have separate sales forces, salesmen may be chosen from each division. Elmer J. Weber, president of the bureau, said the program is open to small as well as large organizations.
Awards will be presented at a banquet May 12.

FRENCH IMPOSE NEWS BLACKOUT ON LAOS FIGHTING

Reds Moving on Luang Prabang, Reported 60 Miles From Capital—Defenders Pull Back.

SAIGON, Indochina, Feb. 3 (AP)—The French high command imposed a blackout today on information from northern Laos, where division of the Communist-led Vietminh is moving on the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Last official reports before the clamping down said French forces screening the capital had pulled back along the Nam Hou river "according to plan" while French planes pounded the advancing rebels.

Pest Occupied.

Since Monday, the Vietminh have occupied the post of Muong Khoun, 95 miles north of Luang Prabang. Later reports said they were approaching Muong Ngot, 60 miles north of the capital, which they may already have passed today.

The command announced that "all measures have been taken to assure the defense of vital points in upper Laos." French reinforcements continue to move to Luang Prabang but the French tactic appeared to envision a stand against the Vietminh in the jungle 30 miles northeast of the city.

Vietminh pressure also developed in southern Laos on the plateau around the important town of Pakse. A battalion of Vietminh regulars was in action in that sector, apparently reinforced by rebel irregulars who have been dug in on the plateau for some time.

Nearby French posts at Attapeu and Ban Phong were attacked yesterday without result and two bridges were destroyed by enemy forces.

French Uneasy.

The French command, however, said Vietminh activities in that region were not especially dangerous.

Meantime, in Saigon, Pham Huy Quat, Viet Nam's defense Minister, declared "the time is not far off when our army will be capable of completely replacing a French expeditionary corps and victoriously confronting the Communist-led Vietminh."

Addressing his troops, Quat said the army has "decided to fight until a final victory" over the rebels but added his country would negotiate "with an adversary of good faith and one whose word could be counted on."

U.S. Crews to Fly Supplies.

Troops in Indochina.

HONG KONG, Feb. 3 (AP)—American crews soon will be flying supply-troop planes for the French in the Indochina war again, headquarters of the American-owned Civil Air Transport disclosed today.

CAT has been notified by its Indochina agent that a French contract to fly 12 C-119 aerial boxcars will be ready shortly.

President A. T. Cox of CAT said he already was assembling crews of two men each—a pilot and co-pilot—in various Far Eastern points.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Some 125 United States Air Force technicians are reported helping keep attack bombers and transports flying in Indochina. Informal officials emphasized that the men are far removed from battle areas and are helping the Frenchmen who fly the planes only in an advisory capacity.

REP. CELLER AIDED DEFENDANTS IN TAX JAM, SENATOR SAYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—Senator John J. Williams (Rep.), Delaware, charged today that Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.), New York, intervened with the Department of Justice in 1951 to help owners of an Ohio firm escape prosecution in a $2,808,875 tax case.

Williams said Justice Department records "indicate" that the department's decision not to prosecute the case "was in part based upon the recommendations" of Celler, who was chairman of the House Judiciary Committee at the time.

Celler, in a letter to Williams, denied that he made any "recommendations" in the case and said his only role was to introduce the defendants' lawyer to Justice Department officials.

The case involving Celler was among 20 cited by Williams to support his contention that collections and prosecution has been "extremely lax" in the larger tax evasion cases.

The case involved Edward E. Jackson of Tampa, Fla., and Samuel E. Jackson of Sidney, O., owners of Jackson Steel Tube Co. in Piqua, O., and the Welded Steel Tube Corp. in Piqua, O.

BETTER THAN BETTER FOR POTATOES?

315 Hindu Pilgrims Reported Killed in Rush Into Holy Rivers

1000 Hurt When Throng of 3,000,000 Stampedes at Religious Festival in India.

NEW DELHI, Feb. 3 (AP)—Three hundred and fifteen Hindu pilgrims were crushed to death and at least 1000 were injured today at Allahabad when a crowd of 3,000,000 strong stampeded into the holy waters at the joining of the Ganges and Jumna rivers, official reports said.

Witnesses said 200 square yards along the sandy banks of the Ganges were strewn with bodies after the police cleared away the panic-stricken throngs at the Kumbh Mela festival.

Prime Minister Nehru was to visit the Kumbh Mela today and Indian President Rajendra Prasad had been scheduled to join the bathers. There were no indications where Nehru and Prasad were when the stampede occurred.

The horde of pilgrims had gathered at the rivers' confluence in observance of the orthodox Hindu belief that bathing there during the Kumbh Mela spares them the pangs of birth into a new incarnation.

in which the gods defeated a horde of demons.

More than 2,000,000 of the pilgrims had waited all night on the river banks in a cold rain. They hoped to bathe during the first three hours after the daylight succeeded the new moon, considered by the Hindus the most auspicious time for the ceremony.

The pilgrims had watched a procession of 20,000 holy men and leaders astride elephants going down to the river to bathe first. Then the streams of pilgrims began to push toward the bank, creating a crushing human juggernaut.

$10,000 FIRE AT LINEN SHOP

Fire early last night caused $10,000 damage at the Moderne Linen Shop, 409 North Sixth street.

The blaze, starting on the second floor, was discovered by an employee in an adjoining building who turned in an alarm. Firemen confined the flames to the second floor and said the damage was divided equally between the stock and the building. Origin of the fire was not determined.

EX-TEACHER OF MUSIC LEAVES $144,836

Will Says Money Is to Be Used for Library or Go to Orphanage.

Charles Machacek, former piano and violin teacher, who was so careful with his money that he spent even little of the interest from funds he had inherited, left $144,836 for charitable purposes.

An inventory filed yesterday in Probate Court showed he left $141,035 in deeds of trust and $3801 in cash. His will directed that the entire estate be used to construct a new branch of the St. Louis Public Library, to bear his name. If the library rejects the bequest, the money is to be turned over to an orphanage.

In the will, Machacek described himself carefully as single and having no brothers and sisters. He noted that he was leaving nothing to relatives, and that he wanted his money used "to perpetuate the family name." This restriction is removed in the event that neither the library nor a fraternal or religious group is willing to name a building for the family. In that event the money is to be distributed to a long list of charitable agencies, most of them orphanages, without restriction.

Always Carried Basket.

Acquaintances of Machacek remember him as an unkempt man who always carried a market basket. As he wandered around the city, he picked up bits of wood and old papers and put them in the basket to use in heating his home at 1725 Oregon avenue. His clothes were old, his hat floppy, his shoes decrepit and his socks usually had large holes showing. Neighbors, however, looked upon him as a man with money.

Machacek lived alone on the littered second floor of the rundown house. His quarters contained old-fashioned furniture and a piano, but no rugs. When he rented the first floor to Mrs. May Boyer a few years ago he did it grudgingly. He didn't want to, he told her, but had been persuaded by a priest that it was the thing to do because of the acute housing shortage. He told her, however, not to expect any repairs.

Robert Schaar, a next-door neighbor for 33 years, said Machacek had lived in the building since his father built it 68 years ago.

"Miserly But Kind."

Walter Rumer, real estate dealer who was named executor of the estate, recalled, "He never did anybody any harm. He just didn't spend any money. His father, a tailor here for many years, died in 1924 and his mother died 10 years later. Machacek inherited their money, bought only first deeds of trust, selected them carefully and kept reinvesting the interest.

"I don't think he ever had anything to heat his house except what he picked up—pieces of wood, papers, old Christmas trees and the like. He was a rightly visitor at the branch library at Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. When it closed he'd come over to the St. Louis House bowling alleys, apparently to keep warm. That's where I met him."

Machacek, 75 years old, died Jan. 11. He collapsed in the rear yard of his home, where he was picking up bits of wood.

STATE REVOKES LICENSES FOR TWO COUNTY TAVERNS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3—State licenses of two St. Louis county 3.2 beer taverns, which were raided last July by state officers in an investigation of law enforcement conditions in the county, were revoked today by State Liquor Control Supervisor Hollis M. Ketchum.

The taverns losing their licenses, Ketchum said, are Munzert's Inn, Gravois and Laclede Station road, Affton, operated by Dorothy Elizabeth Munzert, and the Marine Tavern, Seventeenth street and Marine avenue, Creve Coeur, operated by Willis Henry Thunhorst. Both revocations are effective Feb. 22.

Ketchum said the charge against Munzert's Inn was sale of intoxicating liquor on a license authorizing only sale of 3.2 per cent beer. The charge against the Marine Tavern, he said, was having a slot machine in the place and sale of intoxicating liquor on a 3.2 license.

TWO RED POLICE ARRESTED ON PATROL IN WEST BERLIN

BERLIN, Feb. 3 (UP)—Two Communist policemen who drew their pistols when ordered to leave an American sector elevated station were overpowered and arrested today by American M.P.s and West Berlin police.

The two Red police were patrolling the Zehlendorf station in violation of western allied regulations. They drew pistols when two West Berlin policemen told them to leave.

The western policemen called a two-man American M.P. radio car and a two-man West Berlin police car and the eastern police were arrested.

10 ILLINOIS PRIMARY CONTESTS FOR HOUSE

No Opposition for 15 Other Congressmen; Velde Facing Severe Test.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Only 10 of Illinois' 25 congressmen will have opposition in the April 13 primary, with Representative Harold Velde, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, probably facing the sternest test of the group.

With no candidates entered against the remaining 15, renomination of seven Democrats and eight Republicans appears certain.

Velde, former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent who worked as a counter-espionage agent in this country during World War II, is opposed by a veteran Republican state legislator, Representative Robert H. Allison. Both are from Pekin.

Velde was the center of two national controversies last year involving his work on the Un-American Activities Committee. He subpoenaed former President Truman to tell what he knew about the Harry Dexter White case. He also caused a flurry when he intimated his committee might investigate what he termed subversion among the clergy.

Velde's opponent in the primary has served in the general assembly for nine terms and is known as a labor supporter. In the last session he sponsored nearly 30 bills involving labor matters.

Velde's district embraces six counties in the central part of the state and includes Peoria, the state's second largest city. Representative Barratt O'Hara, of Chicago's second district on the south side, is the only Democrat who has opposition.

Besides Velde, Republicans who have primary opponents are Fred Busbey, Chicago; William McVey, Harvey; Richard Hoffman, Riverside; Edgar Jonas, Chicago; Chauncey Reed, West Chicago; Leo Allen.

Galena; Robert Chipfield, Canton, and C. W. (Runt) Bishop, Cartersville.

G.O.P. Plans Write-In Candidate to Oppose Price.

Plans to nominate a Republican candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fourth Illinois District by write-in vote in the Feb. 13 primary, were worked out last night by Republican leaders of St. Clair and Madison counties meeting at Belleville.

When the deadline for filing passed Jan. 25, no one had filed for the Republican nomination. Party leaders appointed a 12-man committee to select a candidate. A campaign will then be conducted to have voters write in that candidate's name on the Republican ballots.

Russell Beebe of East St. Louis, Republican state committeeman for the Twenty-fourth district, said they hope to find a "strong" candidate to oppose the Democratic incumbent, Congressman Melvin Price of East St. Louis.

INDICTMENTS CHARGE DEALER CONCEALED MORTGAGED CARS

Ralph Chester Hamilton of the Hamilton Auto Sales, 7520 Michigan avenue, was charged in five indictments voted yesterday by a circuit court grand jury with concealing or disposing of mortgaged property, Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph M. Setlich said.

Hamilton was charged with concealment of six automobiles worth about $5000, Setlich said. The General Finance Corp., 4053 Lindell boulevard, is the complainant. The company contends that after it financed the purchase by Hamilton of 19 automobiles, the cars began disappearing from his Michigan avenue lot. The company contends that Hamilton refused to disclose what happened to the machines.

Castings Firm Director.

Edwin A. Walcher Jr., vice president of American Steel Foundries, has been elected a director of General Steel Castings Corp., the company announced today. He replaces Charles W. Bryan Jr., who resigned.

To Oppose Sam Rayburn.

BONHAM, Tex., Feb. 3 (AP)—A. G. McRae, former Texas Power & Light Co. manager

gress against House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn. Rayburn, who served as Speaker, longer than any other man, has been Representative from the Fourth Texas Congressional District since 1913.

"I have five good reasons for using Wheat Germ"

YOU ought to try WHEAT GERM!

Delicious over oatmeal, cornflakes. Adds nut-like flavor to muffins. Recipe on label.

Every mother wants her children to have fine sturdy bodies, natural beauty, happy dispositions—and it takes good foods to build these. Wheat Germ is one of the best foods for children... just a little gives such good amounts of B-vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin, niacin—plus protein.

B-vitamins and protein are essential every day. If meals supply too little, children may be tired, irritable. Add wheat germ; it's protective.

Children enjoy Kretschmer Wheat Germ mixed in cereal, scrambled eggs—over ice cream. Be sure they eat some every day—see the difference.

"Rich it up" with new Delrich

We make New Delrich Margarine the way a master chef puts his favorite recipe together. We call it slow-blending.

The result is New Delrich—by far the best margarine we've ever made. Sample its full rich flavor. Enjoy the easy way it spreads, at any temperature. See how it adds richness to your baking, and more flavor to fried foods, without sticking or splattering.

You never dreamed margarine could be this good!

"RICHED UP" CHERRY NUT BREAD

1 egg 1 1/4 cups milk 3 tablespoons melted Delrich margarine 3 cups biscuit mix 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup chopped nuts 1/2 cup sour cherries, drained and chopped Blend egg, milk and melted Delrich. Combine biscuit mix, sugar and nuts. Add liquid and beat 30 seconds. Fold in cherries. Pour into greased loaf pan (9 x 5 x 3 inches). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 55 to 60 minutes or until done. Let stand in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Cuts best the second day.

Another Godfrey Is Launched on TV

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. KATHY GODFREY is in a difficult position. Being Arthur Godfrey's sister isn't such a bad thing provided one isn't on television. And being on television isn't so bad provided one isn't Arthur Godfrey's sister. Taking on both things at once, though, is asking a little too much of anyone, even a Godfrey.

The world is divided into two classes of people—the ones who worship Arthur and the ones who, to tread as delicately as possible, don't. Kathy Godfrey, who looks a little like Arthur in a wig, is going to irritate the first bunch by seeming to impersonate their idol. And she's going to irritate the other bunch by seeming to impersonate their something-less-than-idol. The better the impersonation, the more the second bunch is going to be infuriated and the worse the impersonation the madder the first bunch is going to get. And that's enough of that.

Considering the formidable handicaps she's operating under, Miss Godfrey has selected a remarkably insipid vehicle to launch her network career on. Originally it had been planned to send her down the ways in a show first called "Up for Adoption" and later called "The Truth About Adoption." At the trial kinescope of this, Miss Godfrey exhibited signs of the Godfrey temperament which, I guess, runs through the entire family and the show blew up.

Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne then thrust her into a sort of quiz giveaway called "On Your Way" which is pretty weak. On "On Your Way," Miss Godfrey plays the part of a Lady Bountiful who is desperately anxious to send people from New York to Tuscaloosa or wherever else they want to go.

FIRST MAN UP on her new show was a man who told Miss Godfrey that he wanted to go to Arizona because—well—he lives in Arizona. Seems reasonable enough. "What do you suppose he was doing here in New York?" "I know everything is going to be all right," said Miss Godfrey soothingly. "We want to help you." She then turned him over to John Reed King, a master of ceremonies of redoubtable lung power, who bellowed still, quiz questions at him. The contestant got the right answers for all but the last one which meant he got a ticket for a plane ride almost to Arizona and, I guess, hitchhiked the rest of the way. So it went. Whole families would gather around Miss G. and ask to be transported someplace and she would cluck sympathetically and say she hoped they got there.

THIS ISN'T a very demanding role and frankly I think this girl is well equipped to handle something bigger like maybe a joke. She has warmth and an air of intelligence (though the intelligence we'll have to take under advisement until she's permitted to exhibit it.) Just possibly, B.B.D.O. thinks Kathy needs to play the tank towns for awhile before she hits the big time and, believe me, she's doing it. On a show like this a girl can make a lot of mistakes without offending many people because there aren't going to be many around.

One of the contestants, incidentally, didn't want to go any place. He just needed the money. For the jackpot question Eva Gabor got into the act, pausing just long enough to plug her new book. "When I arrived," said Eva dreamily, "I was 122 pounds which in Hungary is all right but in Hollywood is a lot of fat." That was the most sensible and easily the most illuminating remark during the whole show.

Try and Stop Me

GEN. JIMMY DOOLITTLE shared a seat in a trans-Atlantic passenger plane with a young fellow who had been in the parachute troops throughout World War II. As the plane prepared to land at Paris, Doolittle noted that the paratrooper grew increasingly nervous. "What's the matter, my boy?" scoffed the General. "Forgotten that you've been in a thousand planes before?"

"It isn't that, General," said the paratrooper earnestly. "This is the first time I've ever landed!"

THERE WAS a whopping three-alarm fire in Pawhuska, Oklahoma, recently, and equipment was rushed from as far away as Bartlesville to get the blaze under control. One engine crew arrived on the spot after a thrilling 50-mile dash to discover two things: 1: the fire was out and, 2: they had lost their fire hose on the way.

Rush in Tokyo

By Stan Delaplane

TOKYO has been overcast and freezing cold. The Japanese hammer along the wet streets on wooden clogs that go clackety-clack as they run the broken field of traffic for streetcars. The crowds are enormous. Day and night. Every evening the shopping districts look like New Year's Eve in Times Square. The population of Tokyo is near 8,000,000.

STAN DELAPLANE

The other day was Adult's day. It was a national holiday in Japan to welcome 1,200,000 Japanese who have just reached 20 years. Not a one has known a year of peace. When they were born, Japan was just beginning the Manchurian Incident. These are the survivors of all the years following.

ASAHI NEWSPAPER notes today that "Victory" has become a popular name for new babies. After the war, it was "Peace."

"Purity" or "Law."

The most popular girl's name is "Machiko." Machiko is the heroine of a Japanese soap opera. The most popular entertainment is pachinko. It is a sort of upright pinball machine. You buy 15 balls for 30 yen. About 8 cents, U.S. You shoot the ball upright and it falls through a number of pegs. If it falls in the right hole, you win more balls.

You can play the balls back in. Or you can trade them for soap or cigarettes or other prizes. For instance, 20 balls get you one package of "Peace" cigarettes. Retail price, 40 yen. That gives you an idea. Every village has a pachinko store. They are in Tokyo like slot machines in Reno.

THE LITTLE Japanese matchbox houses are tremendously colorful. With white paper lanterns covered with black Japanese characters outside. But the thin sliding walls can't hold back the cold.

The other night I went to a lighted gayway in Shinjuku district with Dwight Martin of Time and Life magazines. Thousands of Japanese were jumping from bar to bar. And they jammed the pachinko parlors, their breath frosting the glass on the machines.

In the little paper night clubs, the girls pushed around the only stove like a nest of kittens. Some of them wore American dresses but many were in kimonos. Though without the rice powder complexion and ornate headress of the geisha girl. From time to time a strip teaser would come in and shiver through a number. Martin said she worked a whole string of these little night clubs and was known to correspondents as Miss Goose Pimples of 1954.

The crowds on the street corner break through the fast traffic and spill over the curb stones. Like a stirred-up ant hill. I have no idea where everybody is running to. It seems possible that they are simply running to keep warm. Tokyo being almost the only place in the world I know where it is too cold to stay indoors these days.

The Coffee Habit

By Arthur Edson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP).

NEXT to water, coffee is the national beverage. Each year this nation consumes on the average 800 cups of coffee for each man, woman and child.

Except for goat's milk, it's the only beverage ever discovered by a goat.

In the year 850, the story goes, an Arabian goatherd named Kaldi noticed that his goats, after munching coffee berries, acted exhilarated and carefree.

Kaldi investigated, and that was the beginning of the coffee habit.

The habit is now so important that an increase in the price of coffee worries President Eisenhower, Congress and Edward F. Hower.

Hower is chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, who announced this week that he has started an investigation.

THE PROBLEM HAS international overtones. In his book, "The Romance of Coffee," William H. Ukers wrote long before the present crisis:

"If the people of the United States were to suddenly cease drinking coffee, the effect on the economy of the world would be devastating."

Oddly, coffee first was used as a food, not a drink. Nomadic African tribes crushed the beans, mixed in some fat, and rolled them into a lump about the size of a billiard ball. One lump: One day's ration for a man.

COFFEE LATER WAS USED as a medicine and as a wine. But once people got the hang of brewing coffee, it was here to stay. Now if a year's supply of coffee grounds were gathered into one place, they would fill three buildings the size of the Empire State.

Sweden, Norway, Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Finland, France and Brazil, where they grow the stuff, are great coffee-swilling nations. The English stick with tea, even though their coffee houses back in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries helped boost coffee's popularity.

IT WAS A COFFEE HOUSE, too, that ran the first coffee advertisement of all time.

Coffee, said an ad appearing in 1652, "quickens the spirits, and makes the heart lightsome. It is good against sore eyes, and the better if you hold your head over it, and take in the steam that way...."

"It suppresseth fumes exceedingly, and therefore (is) good against the head-ach.... It is excellent to prevent and cure the dropsy, gout and scurvy."

This country now consumes 94 per cent of all the coffee grown in the world, and it's interesting to note that the habit here began long ago. The first American coffee drinker was Capt. John Smith, who is said to have had his coffee with him when he landed in 1607.

The only suggestion I can make is to say that you have something for which you have to save your lunch money, and that you are bringing your lunch from home. After a while, they will get used to not having you with them and you can later on lunch where you please without hurting their feelings.

Smart Fashions for Matronly Figure

By Sylvia Stiles

THE WOMAN with a matronly figure may be wondering how to cope with the vogue of form-fitting princess silhouettes which are recognized as most becoming to the slim and youthful. With the spring shopping season approaching what shall she buy that will be both flattering and fashionable?

Sketched today are some answers to her problem. The fashions were selected from the collections on display in the St. Louis shops. All are available in larger sizes, and several may be chosen in the larger, half sizes. Each is a handsome adaptation of the new year's featured silhouettes, costume ideas, fabrics and colors. The vogue of decoration which is increasing has not been overlooked. Neither has the trend toward unusual shades and patterns.

1—This handsome suit for late day or dinner wear introduces the modified tunic silhouette which several of America's leading designers are advocating. The jacket has the fitted, longer peplum. Its hemline flares slightly in contrast to the slim lines of the skirt. Deep armholes, rounded shoulders and leg o'mutton sleeves are both comfortable and stylish. The fabric is Dupioni's imported Italian silk all-over embroidered in black on a platinum gray background. Peacock blue with black, ponceau shade with brown and charcoal grey with black are also available. Jeweled buttons repeat the fabric tones. Sizes in this suit range from 38 to 46.

2—This suit with dressmaker's details is made of an imported tweed linen that looks like a lightweight woolen, and has a very elegant appearance. The straight-line cardigan jacket has three tiny flap pockets placed high on the left side of the front and below the waistline on the right side of the front. The four-gored skirt has a deep fold at the center back, the stitching released above the hemline for ease in walking. A white organdy blouse buttons to the waistline so it may be detached easily for laundering. This blouse is enhanced by embroidered collar, cuffs and front section as well as by tiny pleats. The suit may be chosen in regular or half sizes from 14 to 44.

3—A navy blue sheer crepe dress is always an asset to a spring wardrobe. This dress also may be obtained in tans, cornflower blue or black. A cowl drape at the back of the bodice and over the shoulders gives a cape effect that is very flattering. This drape is edged with knotted fabric fringe and there is a brilliant pin for additional decoration. The skirt is straight but has a pleat at the side back. Bodice and upper part of the skirt are lined with taffeta.

4—The bolero, which is one of the most fashionable jacket styles for spring, is becoming to the large and the older woman as well as the slim and young. This suit is made of a Verona crepe worsted in navy, black, gray or mauve. Four-gored skirt has a pleat at the front. The bolero is braided in an all-over design of sou-tache. The three-quarter length sleeves have deep cuffs.

5—The impressive appearance of the new cotton suits is seen in this suit which is made of an imported cotton in iridescent colorings of blue or wine red. The material has a chalky striped pattern with a pretty sheen. A gilet tie of white waffle pique fills in the cardigan neckline of the jacket. A yoke effect with bias folds of the fabric forming a horseshoe contributes to the good lines of this suit. The skirt has a panel back with low-placed pleats.

6—This printed dress and jacket, popularly priced, will be practical and pretty for wear throughout the spring and summer. The fabric is a Chinese printed rayon crepe. The jacket is a version of the Eisenhower style with an easy bloused top and a short peplum. Collar and cuffs are bound with black velvet. The straightline dress has a low neckline and a skirt with panel back.

Hints for Graceful Posture

IT'S fairly easy to achieve an attractive posture and position when you know you are being watched. Like the college student boning for a final exam, you prepare yourself for the judging you know you are in for. You pull yourself up tall, alert your body to a position of grace and take on a look of lithe flexibility.

But how do you stand the rest of the time, say when you are in a line or waiting for someone? Or in a crowded room at a "stand-up" party?

It's just as easy to get in the habit of standing attractively as it is to fall into sack-of-meal stances that give the impression of dullness, slothfulness and distort the figure in most ungraceful fashion. Yet, look over any group, and how many graceful postures can you find?

POSITIONING the hands and arms is of great importance to your standing grace. Learn a few basic, attractive positions and you will have a big advantage over your less-informed acquaintances.

The first one is that of letting both arms and hands fall straight, relaxed and free. In this position, always keep your elbows just slightly bent, your hands turned palms in, touching your skirt. Try this simple measure before your mirror and see how much more slender your hip girth appears than with your hands turned out and your elbows locked.

Another attractive arm-and-hand placement is accomplished this way: Let your hand close into a relaxed fist. Place the plane formed by the fingers on your hip, just behind the hip bone. Keep the wrist and elbow in a straight line to form a neat triangle with the shoulder-to-elbow segment. Let the left hand do as it pleases—perhaps fall just over the inner thigh, fingers cupped outward.

IF YOU LIKE to keep your hands at your waistline in front of you, turn them palms up, the thumb of one hand placed in the palm of the other. In this position, be sure to keep your wrists relaxed, so your fingers, in turn, will relax and curl gracefully.

When you wish to clasp your hands behind you, do so—but keep your elbows bent just enough so that a triangle of space can be seen between your arms and body at the waistline. It makes an amazing difference how slender you look.

Master these, and watch for more aids in putting a polish on your posture.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Commute"—a Word With More Than One Meaning.

WE speak of a person commuting to the suburbs, as well as of a judge commuting a sentence; yet both are the same word.

We have "commute" from the Latin "commutare," which is composed of the prefix with "mutare," to change. The same source gives us "mutation," which we know as a word for change, as in "the mutation of the seasons."

"Commute" first meant to exchange, to substitute one thing for another with the particular application of giving a smaller penalty or payment in place of a greater one. And there you have "commutation," such as the action of a judge in changing a sentence to one less severe. The word has seen use as well in the sense of diminishing obligations, such as taxes or tithes. And it is in this connection that we have the "commutation ticket," which reduces the cost of travel. This makes the "commuter" one who travels at reduced rates.

One handsome spring coat of hunting pink wool has a four-inch wide bias band curved like a giant horseshoe around the neck, down the front, and outward to form crescent shaped pockets at the hipbones.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1. "ANYTHUR," as the Irishman said. They are curious about different things. Evidence indicates that women are more curious about other people's personal lives—especially love affairs, social standing, clothes, etc. Men are more curious about business, sports, and usually about science. Oscar Wilde had it right: "You know what women's curiosity is. Almost as great as a man's."

Answer to Question 2. Often not. He may not be ready to learn to interpret those funny things—letters. He hasn't grown into "reading readiness." Dog trainers won't try to teach a puppy until it is about nine months old, or until it has grown into a training readiness. Authorities say reading to a child can often hasten reading readiness.

Answer to Question 3. Yes. Dr. William A. Lessa says that the Greeks had a word, kalosagathos, meaning "beautiful and good." In the Middle Ages, if two men were tried for crime and the judges were undecided, the uglier one was hanged! How did you and I escape? Criminals are always pictured as ugly. Whether ugliness leads to crime or vice-versa is a moot question.

St. Louisan Is Married In Wyoming

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today by Mrs. John S. McMillan, 400 South Price road, Ladue, of the marriage last August of her daughter, Miss Anne Tilton McMillan, to Pfc. Larry D. Parsons, son of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene O. Parsons of Kansas City, Mo. The ceremony took place near Eaton's Ranch, Wolf, Wyo., where Mrs. McMillan and her daughter were spending the summer and where the bridegroom spent his leave. He and his family, whom the bride has known for years, have spent many summers at Eaton's.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons are now in Tacoma, Wash., where he is stationed at Camp Lewis, and Mrs. McMillan is visiting them. She will again spend the summer at Eaton's.

The bride, a former Mary Institute student, was graduated last June from Westover School, Middlebury, Conn. Of prominent St. Louis families, she is a granddaughter through her mother, who was Miss Cornelia Wheaton, of Mrs. Charles M. Polk, 18 St. Andrew's drive, St. Louis Country Club grounds, Clayton, and through her father, who died in 1949, of Mrs. John S. McMillan. An ancestor, the late Edwin O. Tharand, was a Governor of Missouri. She has one brother, John S. McMillan Jr.

D. H. Thomas Jr. To Be Married

MRS. DAVID HAMILTON THOMAS, 30 North and Southroad, University City, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gravel, will leave St. Louis Friday for Washington. On Monday they will attend the wedding there of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas's son, Master Sgt. David Hamilton Thomas Jr., of the Air Force, to Miss Francisca Pico of Santiago, Chile.

The ceremony, in the chapel of Bolling Air Force Base, will be performed by an Air Force chaplain, and will be followed by a dinner which Mrs. Thomas will give in one of the hotels. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Pico of Santiago, will be unable, because of illness in the family, to attend.

No announcement has been made of the engagement. Miss Pico met her fiancé in Santiago during his two years of service with the American Mission, and Mrs. Thomas met her and her parents on a visit to her son three years ago. Last spring the Thomases entertained their prospective daughter-in-law here.

The prospective bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Nelson Thomas of Washington, with whom he has been living, will be present at the wedding, as will another aunt, Miss Mary Thomas of Raleigh, N.C. After the dinner Sgt. Thomas and his bride will go to New York for their honeymoon. They will occupy an apartment in Washington.

Miss Pico was educated in a Santiago convent. Her fiancé was graduated from University City High School and enlisted in the Air Force soon afterward. Through his mother, the former Miss Jeannette Crowds, he is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James C. Crowds.

Late Winter Visitor

MRS. HAWLEY WERNER WARD, WHO WILL ARRIVE HERE SUNDAY FROM HER HOME IN ROCHESTER, N.Y. TO VISIT HER PARENTS, DR. AND MRS. EDWARD VERNON MASTIN. MRS. WARD IS THE FORMER MISS ELEANOR CHASE MASTIN.

MRS. HALE TOWNE, 2 Garden lane, will depart Friday for New York where she will join Mr. Towne. They will sail Feb. 9 on the Flandre on the first part of a five-week trip. Highlights of their tour, which they will make by ship and plane, include stops at Bermuda, the Azores, Lisbon, Portugal; Cadiz and other cities in Spain; North Africa, Madeira Islands and South American and Caribbean ports.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Nollmann, 110 West Jewel avenue, are spending three weeks on the West Coast. Making the trip by plane, they are spending most of the time in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Members of the Elizabeth Sanders Guild of Grace Episcopal Church and their husbands will attend a dance Friday night at the Parish House. Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Prough, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Moore, are in charge of arrangements with a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Murray D. Etherton, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kauffman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Borresen and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart M. Scott. Guests are asked to wear beachcombers' costumes or winter resort clothes.

Preceding the 10 o'clock dance Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Dunford Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Dixon give a party at the Dunford home, 138 West Bodley avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Ryder Pratt, 515 Crescent drive, will also give a party earlier in the evening.

The annual smoker of the St. Louis Bachelor Club will take place from 6 until 8 o'clock tonight at the Victorian Club West. Garneau Weld Jr. is president of the club.

Miss Baer Plans Feb. 20 Wedding To A. E. Sprung

SEVERAL guests from out of town will be here Feb. 20 to attend the marriage of Miss Barbara Edith Baer to Arthur Edward Sprung of New York. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock that night at Westwood Country Club. Only members of the two families and a few close friends will attend the wedding and subsequent reception. Miss Baer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Baer, 26 Southmoor, Clayton.

H. David Sprung of New York, father of the prospective bridegroom, will be in St. Louis for the wedding. Also here will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tebrich and Mrs. Mitchell Reuben, the uncle and aunt of the bridegroom. His brother, Emmanuel Sprung, who will serve as best man, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Neuman, and Samuel C. and Andrew Kranrich, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ravitch, Manhattan, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Blum, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aloe, Ivyland, Pa., cousins of Miss Baer.

Mrs. Kenneth Marshall (Lois Carp) will serve as matron of honor for her cousin and bridesmaid will be Mrs. Jerome Mayer (Emily Bettman). Mrs. Earl Kessler (Vicki Packman), Miss Vida Goldsman and Miss Elaine Seldin. As ushers Mr. Sprung will have his fiancée's brother, Alan Baer, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Ravitch, Mr. Blum and Mr. Neuman.

The wedding party for Miss Baer will begin next Saturday when Mrs. Marshall and her mother, Mrs. Avery Carp will be co-hostesses at a luncheon and knock-knock shower at Westwood Country Club. Wednesday, Feb. 10, Mrs. Kessler and Miss Jeanette Floret will give a kitchen shower and Thursday, Feb. 11, friends of the engaged pair will attend a cocktail supper at the home of Mrs. Irving Bettman Jr., 6347 Waterman avenue, University City. The rehearsal dinner, the night before the wedding, will be given by Miss Baer's grandmother, Mrs. Louis P. Aloe, at the Congress Hotel for out-of-town guests and members of the bride party. The day of the wedding Mrs. Lester Ackerman Jr., 1230 Lay road, Ladue, will give a luncheon for Miss Baer and her fiancé.

Miss Alice Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fell Peterson, 15 Orchard lane, Kirkwood, a senior at Bradford (Mass.) Junior College, was the guest of her roommate, Miss Susan Stokes of Westport, Conn., for the mid-semester vacation, last weekend.

Mr. Atwood, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roy Atwood, who lived at 15 Southmoor, Clayton, is a graduate of St. Louis Country Day School, Princeton University and St. Louis University School of Law. He is the father of two children, Teddy and Jane Atwood.

How 'Open' Minds Close

By Fulton J. Sheen

NOTHING is more interesting in our social scene than to see how often those who boast of an "open mind" end with a closed mind.

People with an internal pride will sometimes take the lowest places in order to attract attention; so often those who boast that their minds are in a state of suspension until they find truth are often those who are most impervious to it.

The open mind is commendable when it is open like a road that leads to a city which is its destination. But the open mind is condemnable when it is like an abyss or a manhole.

Those who boast of their open-mindedness are invariably those who love to search for truth but not to find it; they love the chase but not the capture; they admire the footprints of truth, but not catching up with it.

THE DISCOVERY OF TRUTH can be very embarrassing. For example, to awaken at night to discover that we are really very selfish and egotistic.

Truth brings with it great responsibilities; that is why so many men keep their minds open to welcome it, but never close them to grasp it.

The real thinker who is willing to embrace a truth at all costs, generally has double price to pay—first, isolation from current opinion or the mass mind. A man who arrives at the moral conclusion that divorce prepares the way for the breakdown of civilization, must be prepared to be ostracized by the Herods and the Salomes. His nonconformity with the mass mind brings down upon his offending head opposition and ridicule.

Second, he who discovers a truth must stand naked before the uplifted stroke of its duties or else take up the cross that it imposes.

THESE TWO EFFECTS of embracing truth, one negative which is opposition; the other positive, which is the burden of the new idea, make many men fearful. In their cowardice, they keep their minds "open" so they will never have to close on anything that would entail responsibility, duty, moral correction or altered behavior.

But the "open mind" falls into a trap. The "open mind," which is fearful of making the alteration in habits which truth demands, most quickly closes on Communism.

Responsibility is the one thing the "open mind" is most anxious to avoid. Avoiding truth is only negative; one cannot long endure in that attitude. So he seeks about for something which will completely relieve him from all responsibility, and he finds it in Communism.

In Communism all personal responsibility vanishes; here he finds retreat from obligation and decision. His will which was originally weak, looks for something to which he can completely incorporate himself as a "total will." This is the Communist party.

From now on, the party becomes his reason; it does all his thinking for him; the party is his existence, all the facts of life are interpreted for him without any personal obligation. The party even becomes history, as the kaleidoscope of events are judged in terms of materialism. As a grape, he had to meet the winds and the storms, but now he has his personality crushed out of him into the great collective wine of the Communist Thought Pool.

One becomes what Klaus Fuchs, who sold atomic secrets to Russia, said is a "controlled schizophrenic." The open mind has closed at last, not on truth, but on "controlled depersonalization."

The moral is for the open minds to close on truth, even though it does involve change in behavior, before they close on Communism and become controlled crackpots.

My Day Quiet Word On Nixon's Piano Playing

By Eleanor Roosevelt

THERE is an amusing little item in the newspapers stating that Vice President Nixon feels that perhaps a Republican should not admit that he once played the piano. I suppose he feels this way because a prominent Democrat in the White House did the same. But I don't think the country will hold it against Mr. Nixon. It will at least consider it one of his minor offenses.

THE DISCLOSURES that have been made in various sources lately about the outers in Federal employment of 2200 Federal employees, all of whom were ticketed as security risks (though some of them were not even dismissed, just transferred to other departments), have made the President say that he would furnish a breakdown and explanation of the reasons why they were so labeled.

According to one newspaper story, the President himself has made the decision to clarify the situation and it is in line with the integrity of attitude which nearly everyone feels such confidence in finding in the President. Some department heads had refused any classification but it is certainly only fair that a division should be made between the people who are dismissed as security risks and those of doubtful character dismissed because of talking too much, drinking too much, etc.

Naturally, the present Administration will try to remove from Government service in important positions anyone who is suspected of subversion. This was done also by the previous Administration. No one can possibly object to such action, but there is a natural demand that this action shall be taken with due regard to safeguarding the interests of innocent people.

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH Senator Bricker had finally become convinced that there was a great deal of opposition in the country to his amendment. This opposition has been slow in building up because at first people did not realize the effect this amendment would have. It is a satisfaction to feel that when information is furnished to the people of the United States, they are actually able to bring their knowledge to bear on their representatives.

The compromise which Mr. Bricker stated he will accept if the President accepts it, is apparently not acceptable to the Justice Department. The State Department has, as far as I know, not decided on its attitude. It is to be hoped that neither will make an unwise compromise since, now that the people realize what the situation is, it would be quite easy to inform the public on the advantages and disadvantages of any amendment which is proposed.

Romance in Rio

by Anne Allison

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.

Lana and Raul were alone in the sun-flooded dining room of the City Hotel. Brilians breakfasted in bed and tourists, exhausted by Rio's night life, were not up this early. The table was beautifully laid with a stiff white cloth and heavy silver and outside the floor-length windows they could see the white, curving beach sparkling in the sunlight.

Blue water and blue sky blended into a distant horizon broken only by the hump of Sugar Loaf and the outstretched arm of the statue of Christ. White buildings gleamed in the morning light.

Merchants called their wares in the sad, heavy accent of Portuguese. There was no sound of music yet subconsciously one felt the unheard rhythms of the rumba which were so much a part of Rio.

"My darling," Raul began earnestly. "What will you have for breakfast? Something filling - ham and eggs perhaps?"

She had to smile, knowing how he abhorred even the smell of this North American fare. He was almost boyish in his effort to please her. But she said she had no appetite this morning and would have melon, sweet rolls and coffee.

"I will come to the point," Raul said holding her hand tightly in his. "In true above-board American style. What you call straight forward - no? My Lana, you cannot imagine how I felt to see this Marian Ames make a scene at our party. I know only too well what she must have told you. That we were in Argentina together. Is this correct?"

She nodded evading his direct gaze.

"It is a lie," Raul said quietly. "We were not there together. I was attending a convention of hotel men from all over South America. I did not confide the nature of my business. Perhaps I should have."

There was nothing subtle or evasive in his steady glance. "Marian was in Buenos Aires to be sure. But not at my invitation. She followed me without my knowledge. She even stayed at the same hotel. It was a source of great embarrassment to me - you can imagine. She hoped for a reconciliation but I told her it was impossible and that I was going to marry you."

It was a perfectly logical explanation. Lana hated herself for remembering that Marian had predicted Raul would have an alibi.

"You do not believe me?" he questioned sadly. "What more can I do to convince you? We are to be married. I have given you jewels. I have introduced you to my family and friends." "I don't think they liked me," Lana put in.

He shrugged. "But, of course, they liked you. No one dislikes the wife of Raul Neves."

His superb conceit more amused than annoyed her.

"About Marian," he persisted. "You must know that I tell the truth, Lana. How can we be happy if you do not trust me?"

"I believe you, Raul," she replied and at that moment, his hand over hers, here in the quiet dining room, she did. In his physical presence she could not doubt anything he said.

It was a few hours later when upon Brad Dunham's insistence she met him for lunch, that she admitted the truth. "I simply don't know whether I believe him," Brad. "I know I must if we are to be happy."

Brad's face was angry. "Why must you? A man is trustworthy or he isn't. You shouldn't have to work so hard to have faith in anyone."

"But I do love him!"

"Love is based on trust. Not moonlight, and rumbas and aquamarines. You're infatuated with him - that's all."

Tears filled her eyes. "You have no right to say things like that."

"Maybe I have, Lana. Because I love you, too, and you'll always know where you stand with me. Why don't you come with me? We can be married as soon as we reach New York."

She shook her head. "Don't ask me, Brad. There isn't any use. There couldn't be anyone for me but Raul."

"Meaning you don't love me, Marian?"

"Why can't we go on being friends?" she cried. "We always used to be."

"As the wife of Raul Neves do you think you'll be allowed to have friends? Do you think you'll be allowed to make a single decision on your own? Or have an idea about anything?"

She was fighting the sense of confusion and desolation that always seemed to overtake her when she was away from Raul.

"This isn't any life for you, Lana. You can't make yourself over into a Brazilian. You'll only break your heart trying. Why can't you see that? Why?"

She had to defend Raul, if only to bolster her own waning sense of security. "I love him," she repeated in a sharper tone than she had intended. "And it's none of your business what I do with my life."

They both rose, leaving the untouched luncheon. "I'm leaving on a plane for New York at 11," Brad informed her. "I have two tickets. One is yours if you want it. If not, I don't ever want to hear from you again."

Uncle Ray's Column

ON the Kelani river in Ceylon, many barges drift downstream. The current moves them, and the steering is done with an oar, which a man holds in the water in place of a rudder. Some of the barges have thatched roofs, and under a roof you might see various products, including tea, being taken to market at Colombo.

Colombo is the largest city and the main seaport of the island. While I was there, I saw some motor cars in the streets, but along with them were many rickshaws and bullock carts.

THE RICKSHAWS were pulled by men, and a passenger was able to ride a mile for seven cents. The two-wheeled bullock carts were drawn by bullocks, or young bulls. The animals made fairly good speed.

Gay-colored costumes are worn by men, as well as women, in Colombo. We may see a little group of four women, each dressed in bright, rich red. Nearby is a man with a saffron yellow robe—he is a Buddhist priest.

Who is that fellow over there? He has a brownish skin, but he is not a native—he is an Afghan from Afghanistan. He wears a rich-looking velvet jacket and heavy white trousers. In his hand he holds a thick stick. By trade he is a money-lender.

Women can manage money

by Margaret Thompson

What are your special saving projects?

In talking to women's groups around town, I've learned that almost everyone has some special purpose for saving... some future luxury or necessity for herself or her family. One secret of women who save successfully for these special purposes is to have a separate savings account for each project.

For example, they open special savings accounts for vacations, the down payment on a home, children's education or a new car. With each fund in its own account, they can keep track much more easily... and there's less chance of the money being spent for some other purpose.

You know, there's no limit on the number of savings accounts you may open. When you've accumulated enough money for one purpose, you can keep the account open for later use by leaving a balance of as little as one dollar.

It's an awfully good feeling to watch those special purpose savings grow, and to know that with every deposit you're that much nearer to your goal. Try it and see if you don't agree that it's the surest way to get those things you've always wanted.
